Detox center continues to stir up controversy

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Sometimes the public comment portion of a municipal meeting is merely an afterthought tacked onto the end of routine deliberations. Such was certainly not the case at the Wilmington Board of Selectmen meeting on Oct. 10, 2017.

Armed with a folder full of exhaustive research and backed by his neighbors, Wilmington resident Jeff Wood stepped up to the microphone the moment the floor was open to comment. The issue at hand was the controversial proposal made at the Sept. 25 meeting that a detox facility be constructed on Middlesex Avenue in North Wilmington.

Wood argued that the presentation given by Paul Kneeland on Sept. 25 contained problematic oversights. The primary issue lay in the comparison of crime in Wilmington to crime in the city of Baltimore. While a study of the introduction of detox centers showed no significant increase of crime in Baltimore, its baseline crime index, according to Wood, was 770 — much higher than the national average of roughly 285, and the 2015 value for Wilmington, 82.6.

Wood suggested it would be more relevant to compare Wilmington to the other small, suburban towns around it, than a large urban center like Baltimore.

He also thanked the Wilmington police department for all that they do to keep local crime rates low, saying, "...we're a small town. Let's keep it that way."

Several residents present wanted to know both how long the Board of Selectmen had known about the proposal, and whether the issue would be coming to a vote by the board at any point soon.

According to Selectman Ed Loud, the board got the information at the same time as everybody else in town. Chairman Mike

Brady Foundation hosts 'Music on a Mission'

By CASSIA BURNS
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — With the goals of raising awareness of substance abuse and promoting recovery, the Brady Foundation's "Music on a Mission" fundraising event will take place on Nov. 3 in the Wilmington High School auditorium.

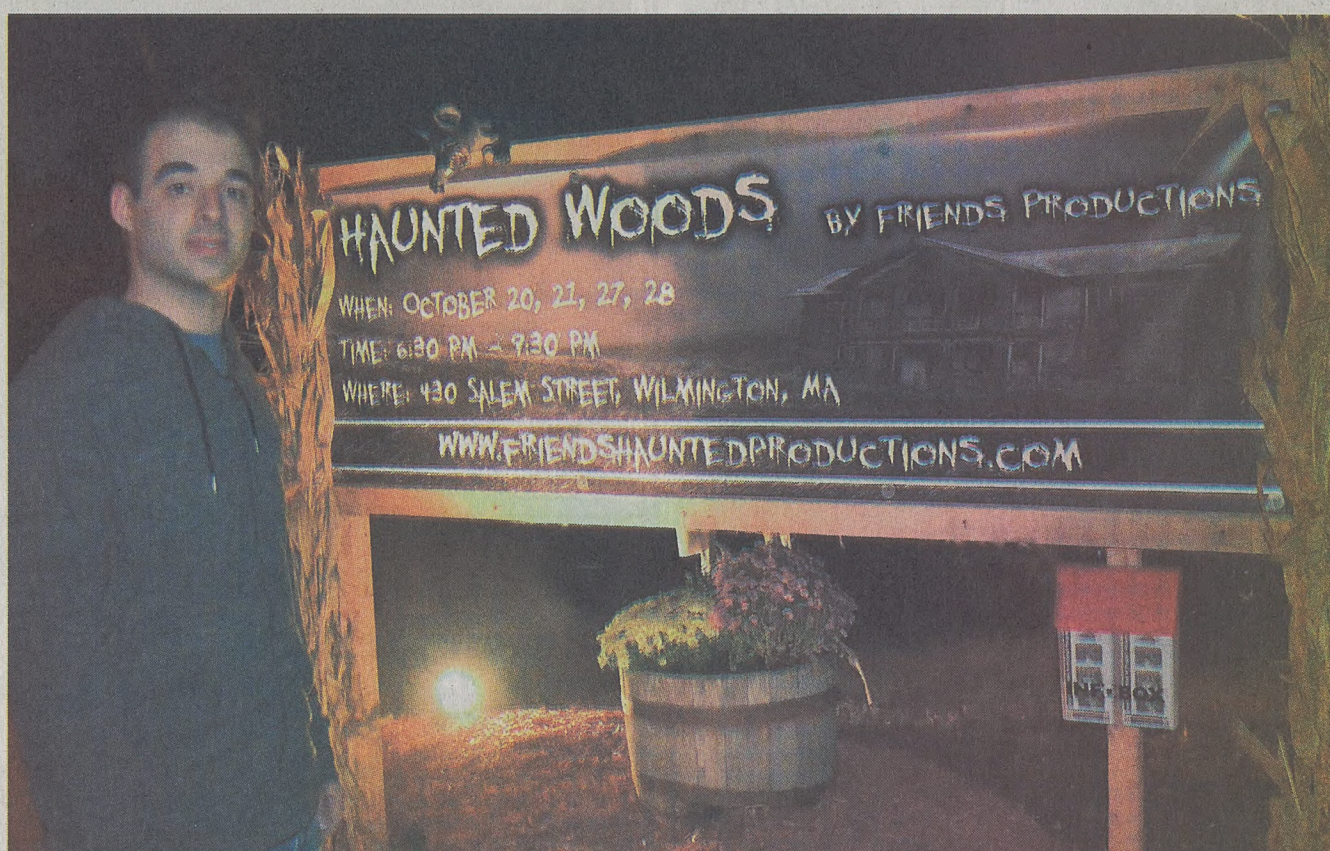

Although substance abuse may not seem like a large-scale issue in suburban communities such as Tewksbury and Wilmington, it touches more residents in these communities than it may seem.

28-year-old Tim Brady was one of them. Suffering a tragic death at the hands of substance use disorder in 2016, Brady then became the inspiration for the Brady Foundation, an organization that works to serve families affected by addiction and provide help and resources to individuals struggling with it.

For all those affected by addiction, the foundation advocates for communication among those involved. "Have a conversation. Whether you are struggling or know somebody who is, there are people and organizations here to help," Renee Marcou, Executive Director of the Brady Foundation, stated.

"Many of us have been affected, let's help our families and friends shine the light on the darkness behind addiction. Together we can make a difference in our community and the world."

The Haunted Woods IS BACK

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — The Haunted Woods returns to Wilmington this month. Stephen Valenti and his team at Friends Haunted Productions are back at the Harnden Tavern, where they have introduced scary clowns, evil witches and bloodthirsty zombies to a normally quiet barn and sleepy wooded trail. The haunt is comprised of themed rooms in the carriage house, followed by a moonlit walk through the woods.

Valenti is reviving the seasonal favorite for 2017 after taking a year off. Haunts are a passion for Valenti, who has been creating such events since even before his involvement with the Harnden Tavern.

After debuting the project in other locations beginning in 2009, the Haunted Woods first set up camp at the Harnden Tavern property in October 2013. The move has given Valenti the opportunity to expand the experience his team is able to create, while simultaneously benefiting a local institution.

Museum Curator Terry McDermott welcomed the return of the event.

"The property comes alive during the weeks of the Haunted Woods," she said. "The Harnden Tavern is such a beloved town property, and even though the Museum is not open during this event, it is great to see so many people able to enjoy the grounds."

Community involvement in the event is also key to its success. Local high school students volunteer as performers and support staff during the event, and the Wilmington Company of Minutemen and Historical Commission members assist with parking and crowd management.

In addition, this year's event feature will be a snack

Bags of Hope comes to United Methodist Church

By LIZZY HILL

WILMINGTON — Sex trafficking survivor Jasmine Grace Marino spoke on Sunday at Wilmington's United Methodist Church for the anti-trafficking movement, where she was a victim of sex trafficking while they made "bags of hope" for other survivors.

Bags of Hope is the outreach ministry founded by Marino and run by the Emmanuel Gospel Center of Boston that collects donations for women affected by homelessness, trafficking, prostitution, and addiction.

As an advocate and mentor for youth at risk for human trafficking, it's Marino's job to raise awareness in the communities around Boston.

"I talk about the myths and have conversations with people about the sex trade and how it's harmful to women," she shared.

She is aware firsthand of how horrible and prevalent human trafficking is in the United States, escaping the enslavement of the industry herself before she started working at the EGC.

Marino revealed that she was trafficked for five years of her young adult life before she was freed.

"[Marino] was a college student being trafficked," said event organizer Christina Haines.

She was manipulated into thinking that prostitution was her own choice and not her trafficker's, so she didn't know that she was part of this or how to talk about it, and she started using drugs as a way to cope with all of the things she'd been through.

It was 2007 before she got sober.

"I was getting substance abuse counseling and going to AA and then I found a Christian church," Marino continued. "One night I was in a meeting with a bunch of ladies...this one lady was talking about her work in Route One Ministry...I had to say something."

Route One Ministry reaches women who consider themselves dancers to support and help them when they want to stop. This was the first time that Marino was called a sur-

Erin Berube's Sole Survivor Club

By LIZZY HILL
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute student Erin Berube's Sole Survivors Club has been gaining traction to raise awareness for the affects and the victims of sexual assault in the community. In light of the recent Facebook campaign for sharing sexual assault and harassment support, the club comes together to encourage those affected to be comfortable enough to come forward.

It was in the spring of 2016 when the senior medical engineering major witnessed an art project designed to fulfill a need. When she heard about her friend Kearra Russell spray painting footsteps to raise awareness for victims of sexual assault, Berube felt charged to mobilize on her own campus.

As she looked for her next steps, she wanted to do something to let people affected by sexual assault

Library Crawl this Saturday

WILMINGTON — On Saturday, Oct. 21, eight libraries, across three library networks, including Wilmington Memorial Library are banding together to put on a Library Crawl. From 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., library enthusiasts are invited to take a self-guided tour of other area libraries and see what they have to offer their communities.

The Library Crawl includes a scavenger hunt of each library's unique features, prizes (while supplies last), and light refreshments.

Here's how it works:

- Start at any participating library and get your Library Crawl passport and scavenger hunt list.
- Visit a library, get your passport stamped and take a photo of the scavenger hunt item (extra karma points if you tag it #LibraryCrawl, the name of owning library, and upload it to social media).

• After you visit your fourth library and show your stamps and scavenger hunt photos to the designated staff member, and you can claim your prize (while supplies last).

The participating libraries are: Robbins Library and the Fox Branch Library (Arlington), Flint Memorial Library (North Reading), Reading Public Library, Lucius Beebe Memorial Library (Wakefield), Wilmington Memorial Library, Winchester Public Library, and the Woburn Public Library (temporarily located during construction at 36 Cummings Park, Woburn).

40th annual Pumpkin Fair to benefit Northside PAC

WILMINGTON — The Northside PAC, serving the Woburn Street and the North Intermediate Schools of Wilmington will be holding their 40th annual Pumpkin Fair on Saturday, Oct. 21 from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. at the Woburn Street School at 227 Woburn St., Wilmington.

All residents are invited! There will be pony rides, a petting zoo, games, pumpkin and cookie decorating and much, much more. Also be sure to check out the raffle table and the Wildcat apparel that will be for sale! There will be some great raffles!

All proceeds go to the Northside PAC to supplement funding for enriching activities and supplies for both the Woburn Street and North Intermediate Schools. In prior years the Northside PAC has raised monies for iPads and netbooks for the schools, school beautification programs, end of the year activities and exciting enrichment programs for the students.

Please come support the Northside PAC!

SPECIAL TAX BREAKS FOR U.S. ARMED FORCES - PART I -

IRS Publication 3,

Armed Forces Tax Guide, is a free booklet packed with valuable information and tips designed to help service members and their families take advantage of all tax benefits allowed by law. Here are some of those tax benefits.

Combat pay is partially or fully tax-free. Service members serving in support of a combat zone may also qualify for this exclusion.

Reservists whose reserve-related duties take them more than 100 miles from home can deduct their unreimbursed travel expenses, even if they don't itemize their deductions.

The Earned Income Tax Credit may be worth up to $6,269 for low-and-moderate-income service members. A special computation method is available for those who receive nontaxable combat pay. Choosing to include it in taxable income may boost the EITC, meaning owing less tax or getting a larger refund.

An IRA or 401(k)-type plan might mean saving for retirement and cutting taxes too. Service members who contribute to a plan, such as the Thrift Savings Plan, may also be able to claim the Retirement Savings Contributions Credit.

Berube, club raise awareness of sexual assault

know that they have support from the community.

"I saw the idea and I really liked it, because it's something that's really stigmatized and uncomfortable to talk about, and I do know people affected by it through school," she shared.

This started with help from eventual co-founder Bethany Hanson to host an "I Will Walk With You" at RPI.

The pair brought together a positive affect by working with their student union and getting the club set up so that they could have their own footprint-spray-painting campaign across campus.

"We invited people to spray paint a footprint to demonstrate support, so each one represents one person affected on campus," she said. "Further down campus we had a booth where we had bracelets and temporary tattoos for people to make donations."

With this initial event, they raised $500 to help the Grateful Garment Project out of San Jose, CA for sexual assault victims who turn over their clothes as evidence.

It was then that two TV crews interviewed Berube and Hanson to share about their club and how it was making an impact.

"It's really important that people are recognizing how important it is for survivors to feel comfortable getting the help that they need," Berube reflected of her recognition.

With the success of their first outreach, the Sole Survivors raised their impact into a three-phase project.

"The first phase was awareness... so we went out and were just talking to people and raising awareness for the event the following week."

They repeated their "I Will Walk With You" this past April, for sexual assault awareness month as stage two, which was showing support from the community.

Finally, the main event was a Take Back the Night forum hosted by RPI.

"The school has people from the community get together and walk through campus, and at the end... people can share their experiences and talk to a panel and advocate for change," said Berube.

Their main goal as a club is to get this movement started on other campuses who see their work and become inspired to take part.

She was nominated amidst all of the service she was doing in April with her club for two awards: the region-wide Jefferson Award for students who give back to the community, and RPI's own Nussbaum Memorial Award for Outstanding Volunteerism. While she did not win either of these awards, she really only cared about raising awareness and the work that she was doing to help survivors of sexual assault to come forward and get the help that they need.

Before she graduates this May, Berube hopes to make sure that her club will stay active after she steps away from her role.

"Our future goal is to register as a 501c nonprofit."

This would establish them as a charity organization and set them up for raising awareness and support for those affected by sexual assault for years to come.

History:

Aids to Victory supported WWII troops

By LARZ NEILSON

When Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and brought the U.S. into World War II, many Wilmington residents were sent off to war.

People on the "home front" did their best to support the troops. Women supporting the war effort weren't just Rosie the Riveter. Local women organized as part of Aids to Victory, sending letters, cars, food, sweaters and gifts to soldiers.

Monthly luncheons were held at the Silver Lake Betterment Assoc. hall. If someone in the service was home on leave, he or she was invited to the luncheon. The lunch would be organized by Doris Cady, with considerable help from a large crew. Lunch was 25 cents.

Mary Hadley would run the business meeting, with reports from various committees. Catherine Joyce reported on the hospital committee.

At the meeting on March 20, 1944, considerable praise was given to Mabel Garrow, who had knitted 80 sweaters for the troops. Mary Hadley read a poem, "Victory" by Nellie Newman.

Special guests were Pvt. and Mrs. William Gerrick, Sgt. John Cochrane, Mrs. Adeline Cochrane, ship's cook Bernard Ring, U.S. Navy, Elmer Nary Jr., U.S. Navy, Betty Nary and Mrs. Elmer Nary. Each of the servicemen spoke of their experiences.

The memories of the women who worked in Aids to Victory stayed with them. At a 1973 party for the 89th birthday of Susan Larsen, there was tribute offered for her work in the program.

Summer of '64 - a time of exploring and adventure

By BRENT CLARK

As I mentioned in an earlier essay — the year of 1963 was full of love, happiness and sadness. That was the year we had to move from our old house at 99 Church Street in good old Wilmington.

My mother rented a house in Andover sometime at the end of school year of 63 - 64. We moved into the home in early summer. The house was on Lowell Junction Road, in an area called Ballardvale. It was way up the end of Ballardvale Street after it left Wilmington.

The beat up house was surrounded on all sides by railroad tracks, with freight trains running at all times — day and night. I remember lying in bed at night and listening to the clickity-clack of the trains on the tracks as the engineers sounded the horns to announce the approach of the intersection of our street. I will never forget that sound as I used it to fall asleep.

Although I was so sad to leave my beloved home in the town that I loved. My next little brother Cliff and I were soon to find so many great surprises and adventures, as you will see.

At the ages of 10 and 11 we were prime candidates for exploring. Our mother left for work each day and my older brothers were (at the ages of 14, 15, and 16), all working back in Wilmington on different construction projects.

This left us alone to travel wherever we wanted and pretty much do whatever we pleased.

The first thing that happened is kids started to come around when they noticed us living there. We met two girls our age and immediately accepted them into our "Lewis and Clark" explorers club.

A typical day would go something like this: The girls, and another neighborhood kid or two would show up at our house in the backyard. My older brothers — Chuck and Stan had started a tree hut there. It began as a hut that was up about 10 feet. You had to climb one of the trees to enter. Soon they started (with us little kids as laborers and scavengers of materials), adding floors to it. By the end of summer — they had built a seven story tree hut. You still had to climb up to the third floor to enter, and then go down or up as you chose.

We became great heroes as we played, ate and slept in that tree hut, that we still talk about in our family to this day.

After some time playing in the hut we were ready to check out the area. We were surrounded by water that always caught our attention. We always tried to catch any water creature. You can catch a frog by hand if you creep up behind it on your stomach and as you grab it you thrust your hand a little in front of it. As it jumps, it will jump right into your hand. Soon we were walking down the railroad tracks, over train trestle bridges that always tempted us to jump off into a meandering river, as we sometimes saw older kids jumping.

Finally — near the end of that endless summer I got up the nerve to jump in. It was one of the most scariest and exhilarating things I had ever done in my life. In recent past I have gone down to see that bridge and see that it was only about 10 feet to the water, but, back when I was little — it seemed like a mile.

As we continued down the tracks we gathered soda bottles to turn in for cash. Eventually we came to a store called the Corner Cupboard in a little village type of area. Here we redeemed our bottles and bought penny candy. The lady there (I believe her name was Mrs. Fredericks), was so kind and patient as we leaned on the front of the counter, stood on one foot in consternation as we made our choices.

Then we would eat our penny candy as we walked the tracks back home. Along the tracks there was an abundance of black raspberries and blueberries to be picked and consumed by us. We always seemed to be hungry and couldn't get enough of these wild delights.

As I mentioned — we loved the water. What 11-year old country boy wouldn't?

We soon found a place called "Little Hawaii" that rented out boats to the public. I immediately became interested in the colorful handmade kayaks that an older Native American type of man built.

I started doing odd chores for him in exchange for free use of any boat and an occasional free Coke and a snack. It was hard work to clean up after the renters, especially if they had swamped the boat, which seemed to happen quite often. I also attempted to learn how to build a kayak but I guess I was just too young and impatient to learn the long slow process. I wish to this day I had learned it from an old craftsman.

Soon we became great "experts" at kayaking. We traveled for miles on the water and sometimes our adventures would last until the sun was setting. We were not supposed to be out after the street lights came on so we would have to run all the way home to stay out of trouble.

I worked at that place for most of the summer and I didn't make a penny — but I sure had a blast.

After a few trips with my mother back to Wilmington we began to notice where we were, and, the fact that we were actually pretty close to our old town and could ride our bikes there. We travelled by Ballardvale Street where my oldest brother Doug used to race his 56 Chevy with his motorhead buddies. That was back in the days when there were giant farms along that road. I am not sure if Charles River breeding Labs was there, but, I don't think so.

Did I mention scary and exhilarating? This next adventure was all that and more.

During one of our trips back to Wilmington — my brother and I, with a few old buddies decided to try to verify a couple of old rumors we had heard about.

The first rumor was about the "Devils Den" or otherwise known as "Captain Kidd's Cave." Just the name of this place was so powerful to our imaginations. We loved stuff like this back then and we could not wait to get there.

After riding our bikes for a really long time, one of the kids knew right where to climb this big slope to find the cave. We all climbed up and over the hill to find the cave. It was a bit of a disappointment to us as it wasn't the biggest cave as I attempted to crawl into it. I was only in a few feet when I had to turn around because it shrunk in size pretty quickly. Even though we didn't get too far with the cave — we still explored that whole wooded hill looking for signs of Captain Kidd and his treasure as we played pirates with our makeshift stick swords.

Back in the good old days we used to use our imagination in so many ways. We could and would use any old stick for a sword and daggers as we played pirates and battled our make-believe foes. So much fun was to be had back then, if you just used your imagination.

As it started to get late that day we decided we better get home. But, one of the kids brought up the hermits house. Now, this is scary. The story was that there used to be an old hermit that lived in the woods across the way. He had a bunch of dogs that he took care of. Well, as the story goes — the old hermit became sick one day and was so sick that he couldn't feed the dogs anymore. As a result, the dogs turned on him and killed him.

Oh my gosh!! This was on my mind as I took a dare from my friends and walked up an old grassy, overgrown driveway through the woods. I was so scared that I felt like I was short of breath and suddenly felt like I had to pee. No kidding!!

Finally, as I rounded the corner the battered and broken down house came into view. It had many smashed windows and some type of trashed greenhouse attached to it. The front door was hanging off and it looked real dark inside there. I was slowly approaching the house when I heard a loud bang, growl, hoof beats, and any other sound you can imagine as I jumped a mile.

With my crew cut hair sticking up and goose bumps all over my body, I turned and ran down that driveway as fast as I could fly. I ran up to the other guys and hopped on my bike and rode away as fast as possible as the other kids yelled and screamed at me with "Hey!! What happened? Wait up," and so on. I was outta there!!

I started sixth grade at a school in Andover and was so sad to have no-one. Did you ever notice that different towns seem to almost have different cultures and different ways of doing things? I had a crewcut and all the boys in my class had longer hair. I had old beat up dungarees while they had new pants and checkered shirts. I just didn't fit. It was simply a general feeling of loneliness in that class.

So — you can imagine my wonderful feelings as my mother announced at dinner one night, that we were moving back to our home town that I loved so much. In the middle of the school year I went into Mrs. Liston's class at the Boutwell School.

She made me feel right at home as some of my older brothers had her for a teacher in the past. We had to walk all the way from Wilmington Center to the Boutwell, but I can tell you that I enjoyed that walk for a long, long time. It was so good to be home — where I belonged.

Letters to the editor

A thank you from the LeRocque family

(Eds. note: This was written prior to the funeral for Rhonda LeRocque)

Dear editor,
On behalf of Aliyah and our entire family, I would like to acknowledge the deep sadness that is felt by everyone who knew and loved Rhonda and who continue to deeply mourn her senseless and tragic death 11 days ago in Las Vegas.

Rhonda and I were married for over 21 years. We, along with our six-year old daughter Ali and my father Roy LeRocque, had gone to Las Vegas to enjoy some quality family time, as well as for Rhonda, myself, and Ali to enjoy parts of the Rt. 91 Country music festival.

Our daily routine each day in Las Vegas was to spend the morning getting breakfast as a family and then spending time together enjoying the pools at the Mandalay Bay. After this, Rhonda, myself, and Ali would go enjoy the country music festival and all the activities there for a couple hours together, until Ali would fall asleep.

Rhonda and I would then bring Ali back to the hotel room right across from the festival and my father Roy would watch her, while Rhonda and I would go back to enjoy the festival.

This same routine happened on Sunday, Oct. 1. Rhonda and I had dropped Ali off to my father, returned to the festival and shortly after that the gun shots began. Rhonda was among those who were hit very early on.

Thanks to the heroic efforts of a few individuals we could get her to the Trauma Center at University Medical Center while still breathing; however, after a couple of hours her life tragically ended. I was with her the entire time.

As we approach Rhonda's funeral and memorial service this Friday and Saturday, I wanted to reflect on her life, the lives she touched and to thank all those who have been and continue to be so kind to our family.

Rhonda was a beautiful loving mother and wife, and Ali and our entire family meant the world to her. Rhonda was a very special daughter, sister, and dear friend who will be missed deeply by her family as well as her spiritual family.

People who had the privilege to know Rhonda would only describe her as the happiest, most caring, sweet, and self-sacrificing person you would ever know. Throughout her life, Rhonda was motivated by her love for neighbors, devoted to spending much of her time sharing the Bible's message of hope, and helping others in her community to learn about Jehovah God. Rhonda and I took such joy in helping with disaster relief efforts in Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida and Jamaica.

Words cannot properly describe the loss we feel and the emptiness Rhonda's death leaves in all of us. We are heartened, however, by the vast outpouring of love, support, tenderness and giving we have seen literally since the moment those horrific shots started.

We want to take a moment to thank everyone for all they gave Rhonda in her final moments of life and have given us since.

We can't possibly thank them all but some need to be called out for their bravery, their life-saving efforts, their generosity and more.

Among them:

- The woman with a medical background who was with Rhonda and I from the moment she was shot and who did everything she could to keep her alive while we were in transit to the trauma center.

- The people who helped me carry Rhonda off the concert grounds to a safer area and then into the back of a pick-up truck, and to the driver who took us to the trauma center.

- The skilled doctors and nurses at the trauma center who fought valiantly to keep Rhonda alive.

All of this is, of course, a blur for me. I wish I could remember their names, or their faces so I could express my deepest gratitude for all their efforts in trying to save her life.

We have been deeply affected by the support of so many, including but not limited to:

- UMC Trauma Center
- The Las Vegas Police Department
- The staff at the Luxor Hotel, who took incredible care of our family while dealing with this tragedy
- The staff, volunteers, police and medical personnel at the The Clark County Family Assistance Center which was set up inside the Convention Center

- The only person we can thank by name: Paul Poteat, from the "Whittlesea-Bell Transportation Group," who displayed love and kindness for many of the victims by arranging transportation to and from the convention center as well as other locations, for anyone affected by this tragedy and provided a good distraction for Ali while we were waiting to get home. (limo to in and out burger)

- JetBlue Airlines for going ABOVE AND BEYOND in providing transportation to get our family members out to Vegas to assist in helping our family deal with this terrible tragedy and get us back home as comfortably as possible, including Rhonda. The JetBlue air crew on the flight with myself, Ali and Roy were so respectful and accommodating, including the Captain — upon landing in Boston — came out to speak to us and got down on one knee and gave his wings to Ali.

- Thank you also to so many other individuals and

TMHS introduces new

2017-2018 school newspaper

By MATT FRONDUTO
TMHS Correspondent

Now, I understand. After reading the title and using some context clues, you have probably realized my bias here, but stick with me, this shouldn't be overlooked.

Last year, entirely by chance, I stumbled upon a flyer for TMHS's Journalism Club, essentially the group who put together the school newspaper, which like many others, I had no idea existed. As someone who loved writing, I showed up at the first meeting of the year, and was immediately caught off guard. The formal, high intensity environment I had pictured could not have been further from the reality, as instead I was welcomed with great enthusiasm and warmth from a group consisting solely of upperclassmen.

My shock did not end there, however, as I was taken aback upon realizing that there were barely a dozen people in the club. I was simply stymied that so few people would want to be a part of something that has the potential to be so powerful.

Despite the small crew operating behind it, TMHS's own Tewksbury Tribune was distributing biweekly content on its website, primarily due to the tireless work of the former Editor-in-Chief Julia Sessa, who has since graduated. And though both the quality and the quantity was prevalent, by the end of the 2016-2017 school year, The Tribune still was not getting as much traction as the club had hoped.

Fast forward a few months, a new school year has started, and with it comes new opportunity for The Tewks-bury Tribune, but this time in the form of a legitimate class for journalism, taught by the club's advisor, Bryan Desjardins.

With journalism now an option for students to take as an elective course, roughly two dozen kids found themselves in the class first semester. Wasting little time, Desjardins put these students to work, teaching them the ins and outs of basic journalism, grooming them for their first articles.

And now, that day has come. After a summer hiatus, the Tewksbury Tribune is back up and running, but now with twice as many hands working to keep it overflowing with quality content. The online paper covers a wide variety of topics, ranging from film and entertainment, to environmental issues, sports, satirical articles, and far more, all written by talented students who have the potential for great careers in journalism.

Although all the pieces seem to be in place for the Tribune to be a success, there is still the fear that the website might receive little traction. For my heart, drops a little every time, a friend tells me they were unaware of the paper's existence, which happens too often.

However, with your help, the newspaper could spread like wildfire, and become a terrific one-stop-shop for kids who want to get their peers' takes on events that are relevant to their lives. It can be as simple as telling friends about the Tribune's existence, but trust me, every little bit helps. And with a little push, the once humble newspaper club can become a journalistic Goliath at Tewksbury Memorial High School.

Resilience: returning to normal not so simple

By PAUL J. ANDREWS
andrews@masssupt.org
Mass. Ass'n. of School Superintendents
Chairman of the Board of Winchester Hospital

Today, many stories use the term of "resilience" as essential in today's world (defined as bouncing back) as so many members of our society face fiscal and/or employment issues in their daily lives going forward. Keeping up the pace of the many changes in our lives has become next to impossible as life is getting more complicated every day, as the pace of life for many is too much.

Jane McGonigal in the Harvard Business Review discussed "resilience" on how she rebounded from a traumatic brain injury using certain techniques.

The breakdown she followed for her comeback had a physical, mental, emotional and social component. In terms of the physical side of her resilience plan was getting up from a computer, chair, etc. and move around for a few minutes every hour. Relative to the mental resilience techniques, she references making sure she performed mildly challenging tasks, like counting backwards from 100 by seven.

Relative to the emotional components to resilience she used was making herself experience three positive emotions for each negative one she had each day. Finally, we have the social component for resilience, including sending a thank-you note or holding a hand shake a little longer. Interesting??

While many folks in our complicated world may use terms like "bouncing back" or "regaining your strength after a fall or illness" the use of the word resilience has become more popular. Unfortunately many folks seem to lack the knowledge to bring resilience into their lives and depression and added negative emotions take over, which is just not good.

Humor and a great story remembered

We all know some folks in our lives who are great story tellers, who brighten the day talking about an event or happening to listeners. Some of us have had professors who used stories to make a point. A good story teller can bring so much more understanding, as opposed to retaining all academic facts for a long period of time but stories never seem to leave your mind.

I had a cousin in Lynn who was a local judge and to this day I remember him telling me about his action in changing the name of Johnny Pesky who was a great member of the Red Sox and settled in the Lynn area.

As a young player, his last name when he came into the majors was "Peseroski" or one close to it in spelling but through the courts, his name was changed by Judge Foley. I do not remember many comments of the late judge but never forgot his Pesky story. All of us have friends who can tell story after story to the delight or exhaustion of the listeners.

To me a good story teller is a great find and a gift to treasure in a world which seems to be full of tension and bad or conflicting news.

Thank you DPW workers

Dear editor,

My wife and I would like to publicly say thank you to the dedicated public works employees. They are responsible for the pristine conditions of all our school grounds, ball fields and recreation locations.

We many, owe much to this shrinking group of town employees. The next time you see them working stop and say thanks for maintaining our town properties.

groups in Las Vegas, who did anything they possibly could to help us in this time of need.

Upon return home, words cannot fully express enough appreciation for:

- The Town of Tewksbury
- The Tewksbury Police Department
- Especially Chief Tim Sheehan in helping the family try to cope with this situation.

- Nichols Funeral Home for assisting us with many difficult decisions.

- Marc Ginsburg and the Tewksbury Country Club for their support of the family.

- The Wilmington Police Department and the State Police for help with this situation and assisting in Rhonda's safe return.

- The Attorney General and her staff for their ongoing special assistance.

- Rhonda's employer of over 10 years, IDEO, who were like a family to her and have assisted in so many ways.

- We would also like to thank my employer, Jon Merz of Merz Construction for his support and continued assistance.

- Spirit Airlines for assisting some of Rhonda's family to be here to attend the services later this week

We would also like to extend a special thank you to those who have given an unexpected gift. We are so grateful to all those who have contributed to various funds established, including the Greg Hill Foundation. These funds will be used to care for the long-term needs of our family.

All of those who have reached out to help the family in other ways such as food, calls, cards, etc. The outpouring of support has been overwhelming to say the least. It gives us all so much hope to see the kindness of so many!

We are sorry if we have missed anyone, please accept our humble thank you to anyone who has offered their services and assistance through this extremely difficult time.

Rhonda was a firm believer in the Bible's hope for the future that soon death and violent acts will no longer exist (Rev 21: 3,4). At this time, as difficult as her death is to all who knew her, we are comforted by this message as well, and will continue to share this message with others.

Our thoughts and prayers are with all the families who are also affected by this senseless tragedy.

Welcome to Tewksbury reception this Monday

TEWKSBURY — Have you moved to town in the past two years? Are you interested in learning more about what Tewksbury has to offer?

New residents are invited to the first annual "Welcome to Tewksbury" Reception on Monday, Oct. 23, 2017, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., at the Tewksbury Public Library (300 Chandler St.).

New residents are encouraged to drop in anytime during the two hours to:

- Meet representatives from town government, schools, businesses, and community organizations.

- Learn about their services, programs, and volunteer opportunities.

- Pick up a free Welcome Bag filled with information, coupons, and gift items from Wilmington-Tewksbury Chamber of Commerce businesses.

- Enjoy conversation and light refreshments with other residents who are new to the community.

The Welcome to Tewksbury Reception is hosted by Tewksbury Public Library and the Wilmington/Tewksbury Chamber of Commerce.

"We're so happy to be expanding our popular Welcome Receptions and Welcome Bag program into Tewksbury," said Chamber Executive Director Nancy Vallee. "They've been a hit in Wilmington and we're excited to provide the same opportunities to new Tewksbury residents."

"The library is honored to host this reception," said Community Services Librarian Robert Hayes. "It's really a natural fit as the library is a hub for community information and often one of the first places residents visit after moving to town."

While the event is geared towards new residents, any resident who feels they would benefit from attending is welcome.

Have a question about the event? Contact librarian Robert Hayes at 978-640-4490 x 205 or rhayes@tewksburypl.org.

Delpapa arrested for armed robbery

TEWKSBURY — On Oct. 17, 2017 the Tewksbury Police Department, with the assistance of the Billerica Police Department, arrested Peter Delpapa, 48, of 0 Brandon St., Billerica, for Armed Robbery.

On Oct. 16, 2017 at approximately 4:30 a.m., the Tewksbury Police Department responded to the Mobil gas station at 2 Main St. for a report of an armed robbery.

During the robbery, a white male entered the store wearing a black hooded sweatshirt, with a black hat and black gloves. He approached the register and asked for cigarettes. He then lifted the right side of his sweatshirt and showed a handgun in his waistband.

He then demanded all the money in the drawer.

After he received the money, he exited the store toward Main Street. Tewksbury Police patrol cars responded to the location, along with State Police K-9, and conducted a search of the area. Detectives also responded and began to conduct an investigation.

This armed robbery appeared to be similar to two armed robberies that had occurred in Billerica on Sunday, Oct. 15, 2017. Detectives conducted the investigation with the Billerica Police Department and were able to identify Delpapa as the suspect in the armed robbery.

A search warrant was executed at 0 Brandon St., Billerica, where the sweatshirt, gloves, black hat, and a handgun were recovered.

On Oct. 17, 2017 Tewksbury Police Detectives were able to locate Delpapa in the McDonalds on Boston Road in Billerica, at which time he was taken into custody. Delpapa was courtesy booked at Billerica Police Department, then transported to the Tewksbury Police Department where he was booked for Armed Robbery and Possession of a Firearm Without a License.

Delpapa was due to be arraigned on Oct. 18, 2017.

OBITUARY

Louis R. 'Bud' Kleynen

Served in Army; stationed in Germany

Louis-R. "Bud" Kleynen of Aiken, S.C., and formerly of Tewksbury, Mass., died unexpectedly on Sept. 25 while doing the thing he loved, playing golf, in Scotland, with friends at the Western Gables Golf Club.

Born in Lowell on May 9, 1949, the son of the late Louis L. and Margaret C. "Sis" (Hennessy) Kleynen, Bud grew up in Wilmington and graduated from Wilmington High School. He and Nancy Ross of Andover were married in 1971 while Bud was serving in the Army in that era of the war in Vietnam. The couple moved to Germany where Bud was stationed and while there they became parents of their only child, Jodie Lynne.

Following his military service, Bud worked for the US Government and later began a career in the retail sector where he became skilled in information systems while working for a number of companies, including Lech-mere, Ann & Hope, Star Market and B.J.'s Wholesale Club.

Following Bud's retirement, he and Nancy moved to Aiken where Bud joined the staff of Palmetto Golf Club. He truly loved his job and the people he worked with. He and Nancy quickly made new friends in the area and Bud was known as a good neighbor who could solve computer problems. Bud loved to travel; he looked forward to family vacations and the "group trips" that he organized with friends.

An avid golfer, he played as often as he could on as many courses as he could but he enjoyed none more than the days he spent playing with and teaching his grandson Jake.

Bud will be fondly remembered by all who knew him for his great sense of humor. He always loved a good joke, even the silly ones made up by his granddaughter Molly. But he will be remembered most for being a kind, generous, great guy who was always there to lend a hand to anyone in need. He will forever be in the hearts and minds of those who loved him.

Bud was the beloved husband of the late Nancy (Ross) Kleynen, devoted father of Jodie L. McDonough & her husband Sean of Tewksbury, loving "Pa" of Jake and Molly McDonough. Cherished son of the late Louis and Margaret "Sis" (Hennessy) Kleynen, dear brother of Patricia Kleynen of Wilmington, John "Jack" Kleynen and his wife Debra of Haverhill and the late Kevin Kleynen. Bud is also survived by a niece, nephews, cousins and many friends.

Family and friends will gather for a visitation at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62) in Wilmington on Sunday, Oct. 22 from 3 - 5 p.m. followed immediately by a Service at 5 p.m.

In lieu of flowers donations in Lou's memory may be made to Homes for Our Troops, 6 Main St., Taunton, MA 02780 or www.hfotusa.org.

Baker-Polito administration launches new mass.gov website

BOSTON — The Baker-Polito Administration announced the launch of the new Mass.gov website, now equipped to better meet the needs of thousands of constituents visiting it on a daily basis. The website has been in design and development since late 2016 and been improved through pilot tests, user research, and public feedback over the last several months.

"People across Massachusetts interact with state government online more and more each day, so redesigning the Commonwealth's digital front door was a crucial step for improving our ability to effectively communicate with the residents, businesses, and visitors we are here to serve," said Governor Charlie Baker. "Massachusetts is home to a nation-leading innovation economy, and we are proud to add a modern and practical website from the Commonwealth to the community."

"The new Mass.gov is a much more responsive and flexible product that can be used on various devices by people of all ages and abilities," said Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito. "The Commonwealth's design team went through extensive lengths to ensure the new website can be used by everyone. We look forward to working with our cities, towns, and constituents to ensure this asset continues to improve and work well for all users."

Today, more than 76 percent of constituents interact with government online, more than any other medium. The new website will work well with both high-speed connections and pay-as-you-go wireless data plans, and have better functionality on more devices than the previous version. New standards implemented on the site will also make search results richer, including information like addresses, phone numbers, and hours of operation.

"The redesign project is part of our mission to modernize the state's digital infrastructure," said Executive Office of Technology Services and Security (EOTSS) Chief Digital Officer Holly St. Clair. "The new Mass.gov is designed to be accessible for everyone — including people who are blind who navigate the Internet with a keyboard and listen to screen readers, as well as elderly people and those with visual impairments who need high contrast and large text to read. Providing a modern digital website will better serve these important parts of our community."

Since late 2016, the design team has done a number of small, focused tests online and in person, including a test session at a career center in Worcester and another at the Perkins School for the Blind. Mass.gov testers have been from urban, suburban, and rural areas from every part of the state. Some 330,000 users visited the pilot website launched to the general public in February. Hundreds of users have provided important feedback to user experience researchers through over a dozen tests.

Massachusetts Digital Services is the team under the new technology and security office charged with evolving the new digital platform to improve constituent-focused services. Key strategies to continuously improve Mass.gov over time include:

- Dashboards to give the Commonwealth continuous feedback from constituents on how web content performs so organizations can be proactive and methodical about making improvements.

- Open source technology used by many large companies and universities. Now when other organizations make improvements, Massachusetts can leverage these innovations, too.

- The ability to publish content in formats usable by developers. This means state organizations, cities and towns, and third-party developers will be able to build apps and integrations with the state's platform, and innovations can be smaller, faster, and cheaper.

On Aug. 1, 2017, the Baker-

Polito Administration formally announced the creation of the Executive Office of Technology Services and Security (EOTSS) to provide secure and quality digital information, services, and tools to constituents and service providers when and where they need them. This new secretariat was created under Article 87 of the Massachusetts Constitution that authorizes reorganization of executive branch agencies.

In addition to leading the website redesign process, EOTSS is charged with transforming the Commonwealth's decentralized approach to IT infrastructure and service delivery into a centralized technology organization laser-focused on securing digital assets and providing world-class service to customers and constituents.

Justice of the Peace Eleanor J. Collins very active in the wedding industry

WOBURN — The Honorable Eleanor J. Collins, Justice of the Peace, of 19 Squanto Road, in Woburn, is a member of the Massachusetts Justice of Peace Association, the National Notary Association, and a Member of the Boston Wedding Group. She is also involved with many Venues where weddings are held. She is also a Charter Member of the Middlesex Lions and a Past Matron of the Order of Eastern Star.

She is very active with these groups to always stay current in the latest changes, and up dates, that occur in the industry. Being a member of the Prestigious Boston Wedding Group, keeps her in constant contact with the Vendors in every field of the Wedding Industry, as well as the High End Brides.

Many magazines throughout the country feature people that are in The Boston Wedding Group. There are many educational sessions held at various wedding sites to expose the BWG to what is available for their brides. As part of the Boston Wedding Group educational process, well known Speakers in the industry, are featured at the meetings.

Recently, The Harvard Club, part of The Boston Wedding Group, hosted a night which was opened to other people in the wedding business. The featured speaker for this gala was from The Wedding Wire.

As added features there are trips to the sites of the various Wedding Group Vendors. This is to help your net working become easier as you are familiar with their products, such as cake designers, floral designers, Shoes to Dye For, bridal apparel and make-up. And of course you are taken by Bus Limo to these sites!

It is a wonderful way of keeping a net work of the latest Wedding ideas, fresh and alive. This is also an opportunity for a Bride to be able to come for a consultation, and be directed to every one of her needs knowing, that she will be well served in every capacity.

Many brides have no idea of the work involved in making the most important day of her life run without a hitch, and Ellie is an expert in this field. Mrs. Collins has been in the Wedding Industry for over 20 years. She has been in the Function and Event Planning as well as the Managerial side. She has had a Catering Service and a Floral Design Shop with her daughter. As a cosmetologist, she continues in The Beauty Industry End. Her daughter is a make up artist, and can be there the day of your wedding.

When you ask her what

Eleanor J. Collins,
Justice of the Peace

her favorite part of the business is, her reply is "I Love meeting the couple, getting to know them. It is so important to me, to prepare a service that is just for them. It is such a Joy for me to marry them, and be a permanent part of the beginning their new life, as husband and wife.

Each wedding is so different. I have married people in Hotels, Churches, Backyards, Bridges, Boats, Woods, and even Ponds. You name it, and I've probably been there. Weddings have taken me to the four corners of the world. It is such fun to see how much people respond to a Wedding that has been designed for the couple, and share in their "Love Story".

When you call Ellie, she may ask, am I coordinating your Wedding, or am I marrying you. Even if it is just for the Wedding Service, each bride is always given added services for the event. It is because Justice Collins wants to make sure all the details are in place for your Special Day.

Planning a wedding? There will be plenty of details that demand your attention. Besides the dress, the flowers and the food, there's one thing that everyone will notice on your special day: you smile. Your dentist can help you make sure it is as radiant as possible.

Achieving a bridal-white smile

Professional cleaning. A professional cleaning in a dental office before your wedding can help remove stains that might otherwise make your smile less than bright. If food, beverages or tobacco have caused the discoloration, your smile may benefit from a tooth whitening treatment from your dentist.

Whitening. Whitening (also called Bleaching) is a procedure that brightens teeth that are discolored or stained or have darkened in color because of injury. Whitening can be performed on living teeth or teeth that have had root canal treatment. It may be done entirely in the dental office (a process known as chairside bleaching) or the dentist may dispense a system for you to use at home (home-use bleaching).

Chairside bleaching takes from 30 Minutes to on hour per visit. A chemical

Most costly vs. most affordable areas to get married

Many couples know that weddings are expensive. Whether couples finance their weddings themselves or rely on the generosity of their parents, the final price tag may be several thousands of dollars.

The price of tying the knot can vary significantly depending on geography. According to data compiled by the online wedding resource The Knot, the following are some of the more expensive places to get hitched in the United States. If budget allows for traveling, it may be worth it to head to a nearby state to save considerable dollars, particularly if couples reside in the New York/Tri-State area of the East Coast, where weddings tend to be the most costly.

10 Most Expensive Places
1. New York - Manhattan ($82,299)
2. Illinois - Chicago

($61,265)
3. New York - Westchester/Hudson Valley ($57,501)
4. New York - Long Island ($56,950)
5. New Jersey - North/Central ($54,334)
6. Massachusetts - Cape Cod ($54,334)
7. Rhode Island ($50,266)
8. New York - Outer boroughs ($46,682)
9. California - Palm Springs ($44,646)

solution is applied to the teeth to lift out stains. A special light may be used at intervals to help activated the bleaching agent. To complete the process, two to 10 sessions one week apart maybe required. It is not uncommon for the teeth to become slightly sensitive temporarily after bleaching treatment.

With home-use bleaching, the dentist creates a custom-fitted mouthguard that holds the bleaching gel. The mouthguard is worn up to two hours daily or at night for the length of time specified by the dentist. The amount of time per evening for which the mouthguard is worn and the treatment duration may vary according to your needs and your dentist's recommendation.

Other cosmetic options

Bonding. If your teeth are chipped, broken, cracked or badly stained or have slight gaps, ask your dentist about bonding. Bonding is a cosmetic procedure that uses tooth-colored materials that are attached or bonded to the tooth surface. The process can improve unsightly stains from coffee, tea, tobacco or certain medications taken in childhood. Bonding sometimes is used to correct chips or to fill small cavities.

The bonding process involves preparing the tooth surface with an etching solution. The solution allows the bonding material (resin-based composites) to better adhere to the tooth. Resins of various colors are carefully blended to match the color of the existing tooth. The resin is applied, contoured into the proper shape and hardened using a special light or chemical process. The bonded tooth then is smoothed and polished to appear natural. Bonding usually can be completed in one visit.

Veneers. Veneers are thin custom-made shells that are designed to cover the front of the teeth. Made of tooth-colored materials, veneers are used to treat gaps and teeth that are permanently stained, poorly shaped or slightly crooked. Veneers also are used to cover teeth that are chipped, worn or eroded at the gum line.

Enamel shaping. If your front teeth are uneven along the edges, or your canine teeth are too pointy, your dentist may recommend enamel shaping involves contouring tooth enamel to create a smooth line. The process, which often is combined with bonding, usually is quick and comfortable. The results can be seen immediately.

Tips for traveling brides

If you are planning a honeymoon outside the United States, make sure you and your fiancé have dental checkups a month or so before you leave. This will lessen the likelihood of having a dental problem while you are enjoying your trip.

If your smile could use a little boost before your big day, talk to your dentist.

When you are married in her home, she provides some little extra things that help your day become Special. It might be a corsage, or a toast, or maybe even a candle. One bride wrote "Thank you for just being there to help calm my nerves. I saw your smile, and knew everything would be perfect. And It Was!! The ceremony was wonderful and beautiful! People are still calling me to say how Great and Beautiful my Service was." Thank you for everything!

Ellie says "Notes like this, make my job the best in the world".

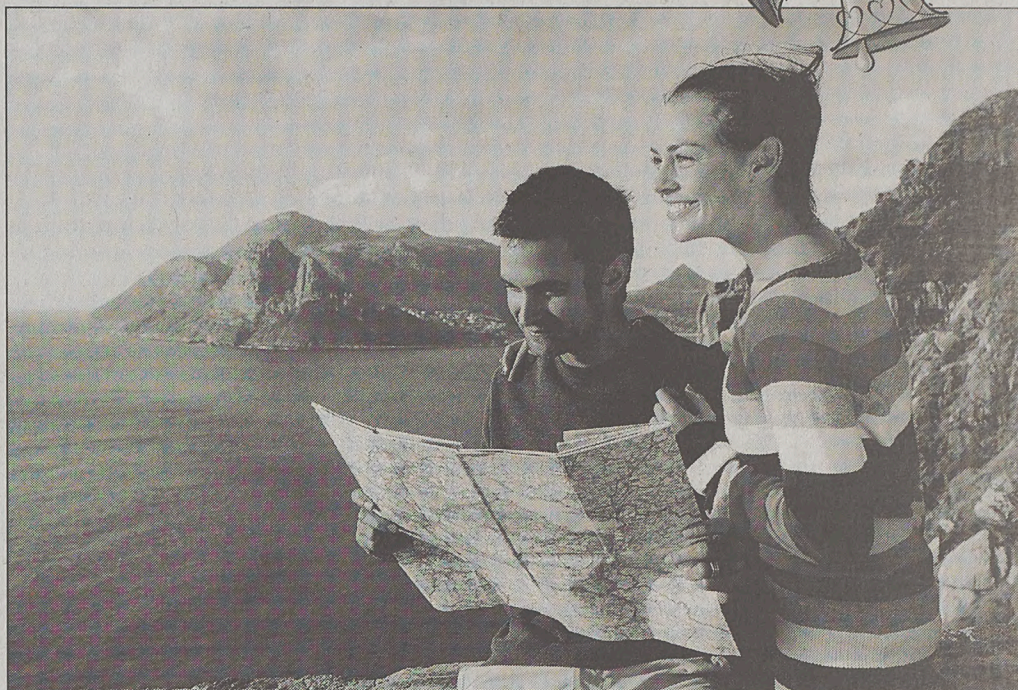

Sanborn House of Winchester beautiful setting for any occasion

The Sanborn House is a beautiful and unique setting for any occasion. One of the few surviving grand estates of Winchester, the Sanborn House was built in 1907 in the Beaux-Arts style as a private residence for Oren Sanborn, son of James Sanborn, co-founder of the Chase and Sanborn Coffee & Tea Company. Originally named "Aigremont" in recognition of the pastoral landscape, the estate is situated on four acres of lawn, garden and gracious hillside. The Sanborn House is owned by the town of Winchester and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Winchester Historical Society holds a long-term lease for the Sanborn House and manages the continued preservation efforts for the property. The first floor, entrance and exterior all have been restored to their original grandeur. The Sanborn House is available for rent year-round, and is the perfect setting for family celebrations and events, and corporate functions, meetings and workshops. The Winchester Historical Society also offers substantial rental discounts to local nonprofit groups, schools and service organizations. Renters have full access to the entire first floor, which offers more than 1,200 square feet of combined space. The Library, Parlor, Dining, and Music Rooms each are graced with handcrafted original plasterwork and intricate woodcarvings. The foyer features a grand staircase and Tiffany-inspired stained glass window. French doors open to the covered veranda.

A large updated kitchen is available for catered events. All Rental fees support the continued restoration of the Sanborn House Historical and Cultural Center.

WEDDING LOCALES vary in their average costs for weddings. Traveling can help couples save.

10. Louisiana - New Orleans ($44,178)

If those prices seem exorbitant to some couples, fortunately there are still a few places where couples can find wedding bargains.

10 Least Expensive Places

1. Alaska ($17,361)
2. South Dakota ($18,890)
3. Texas - West ($19,261)
4. Arkansas ($19,856)

5. New Mexico ($20,114)
6. North Dakota ($20,211)
7. Idaho ($20,245)
8. Montana ($20,322)
9. Oregon ($20,456)
10. Illinois - Central ($21,818)

Your dream wedding can be anywhere...

Weddings in today's world are not always about white gowns and four course meals. Though couples may still opt for the traditional walk down the aisle, that aisle may run along a city rooftop under the stars, to the bow of a boat or at the water's edge of a local pond. And once the vows have been exchanged and the toasts have been made, the guests may be treated to a chef's cooking demonstration, games on the lawn, or street carts serving sliders or soft serve ice cream.

But, while venues can be traditional or eclectic, today's wedding couples all want one thing - a ceremony that reflects them - their tastes, their lifestyles, their dreams and hopes. They want their vows to be words of love, of truth and of happiness. Mostly, though, they want to create a ceremony they - and their guests - will remember as one of a kind!

Your wedding officiant can be a minister, a justice of the peace or a friend commissioned specifically to officiate your marriage ceremony. Whether you are 20-somethings or 60-somethings, whether the wedding is in the living room with no witnesses or in a country barn with two hundred guests, whether you want a five minute vows exchange or a twenty-five minute ceremony complete with music, rings and multiple readings, your officiant should endeavor to make your planning smooth, simple and fun and your wedding ceremony exactly as you envision it.

There are only a few components that must be included in a ceremony for it to be officially recognized - a declaration of intent that both parties to the marriage are participating of their own free will, a declaration of vows and the official pronouncement of marriage by an individual commissioned by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. But there is lots of room for individuality and it is your officiant's job to ensure that it all comes together.

Timing is critical to planning the perfect ceremony. Whenever possible, you should reserve your wedding date with an officiant at least one year in advance - this will give you time to meet, get to know each other and decide if he/she is the person with whom you want to work. It may take several tries to find the one person that is perfect for you both. Once you agree to work with someone, begin the process of sharing with your officiant who you are as individuals, your couple story, your dreams for the future and what you want your marriage ceremony to say about you. He or she will use this information to help you create a wedding ceremony which reflects you both.

Above all, your wedding officiant should ensure that your wedding ceremony is truly yours - the words, the music and the commemorative moments. While there are any number of wedding traditions - different heritages, religions or secular beliefs - to explore online, in books and in conversations with married family and friends, your own ideas and visions are the framework on which to build your ceremony. Your celebrant may also share readings, vows, ring exchange wording and special ceremony ideas that he or she has observed through the wedding planning process. You should work together to discover which ones fit your framework best.

You may want to light a unity candle, but add the twist of involving your parents to get the flame going; you may opt for a hand-wrapping ceremony that incorporates the hem of your grandmother's wedding gown as the wrap; you may ask your children to join you in a sand ceremony with multiple colors of their choosing.

If you want to ensure that each of you contributes to the wedding ceremony, take time early in the wedding planning stages - and before the stress and strain of planning take their toll - to write letters to each other. In the letter, share why you want to marry your intended, what characteristics you admire in your future partner and perhaps one or two moments - funny, reflective, difficult - that define who you have become as a couple. Give the letters to your officiant without reading them. Your officiant can use the letters to craft a very personal statement as part of the ceremony, using the information he or she has heard from you both in your meeting and the letters you've provided. Once the ceremony is over, the officiant can give your letters back, you can put them someplace for safe keeping and then read them on your first anniversary, or the first time you encounter difficulty. Not only will they remind you of why you married each other, but also they will rekindle memories of the moments from your wedding ceremony when you said "I will."

Readings don't have to be religious in nature - they can be passages from a favorite book, a poem one of you has written, a story shared by a friend or wedding party member. Vows don't have to be the formal "I Do" your parents exchanged - you can speak from your heart about your willingness to share your life with your partner or you can read something you've written yourself or something you've discovered. Or you could ask a question such as "Will you take me to be your wife, your love for life and your partner through all the moments we'll encounter?" and your partner can respond.

Whatever form your wedding ceremony ultimately takes, your wedding officiant will be a key member of your wedding party, and he or she will ensure that your day is exactly what you want it to be - the moment of a lifetime!

Wilmington Police Log

Woman arrested for operating under the influence

Monday, October 9:

12:09 p.m.: A motor vehicle collision occurred at the intersection of Glen Road and Brattle Street involving a Toyota Corolla and a Ford Focus. No one was injured. The Corolla had very minor damage as a result of the collision.

7:19 p.m.: Erin Muise, 27, of 250 Chestnut St. was stopped on Lawrence Street and arrested for operating under the influence of liquor and failure to dim her car's headlights. Muise was later bailed.

9:11 p.m.: An unattended Honda Accord was struck and damaged by a Ford F-150 on Main Street. The driver of the Ford left their information on a note attached to the Honda's windshield before leaving the scene.

Tuesday, October 10:

1:25 a.m.: A police officer was flagged down by a resident at Planet Fitness on Middlesex Avenue. The resident notified the officer of a needle to be disposed of.

7:49 a.m.: A number of unlocked vehicles on Carson Avenue were entered overnight. Three of the cars had nothing taken from them, but other vehicles were missing change, a credit card, and cash, one car even having $130 taken from it.

8:23 a.m.: A Chevrolet Express Van and a Jeep Patriot were involved in a motor vehicle collision on Eames Street. No injuries were reported.

9:17 a.m.: A branch took a wire down into the road on Cook Avenue. Reading Light and the Fire Department turned the power off to the wire before removing it as it was smoking.

3:48 p.m.: A vehicle was damaged while parked on Shady Lane Drive overnight.

4:14 p.m.: A BMW 640i and a Plymouth Prowler were involved in a minor collision by the high school on Church Street. Both vehicles were operable after the incident.

Sunday, October 15:

6:57 p.m.: An older balding man with dark hair was seen looking into homes on Deming Way. Police checked the area and saw a man matching this description, but left him alone as he was getting into a vehicle.

Shoplifting $1M lottery winner to appeal conviction

TEWKSBURY (AP) — An attorney for a $1 million lottery winner accused of trying to steal $80 worth of lipstick from a New Hampshire department store says she will appeal her conviction.

Attorney Patrick Arnold tells the Eagle-Tribune the accusation against Yokatia Rodriguez stems from a "misunderstanding that could happen to anyone."

Rodriguez was found guilty in a Salem, New Hampshire court earlier this week of attempted shoplifting. Arnold says she will appeal the verdict in Superior Court.

The 40-year-old Tewksbury woman was accused in December of trying to leave a Kohl's store without paying for some items in her cart. A receipt showed she paid for nearly $520 worth of stuff, but not $80 worth of lipsticks.

Arnold says Rodriguez "looks forward to her day in Superior Court."

OBITUARIES

Anna E. (Mullen) Anderson

Worked quality control at Sweetheart Plastics

Anna E. (Mullen) Anderson, age 92, of Wilmington, died peacefully on Oct. 15, 2017, at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington.

Anna was born on June 13, 1925, in Great Barrington, MA; she was the daughter of the late John H. and Ella J. (Yale) Mullen.

Anna was a resident of Wilmington for over 70 years where she raised her children Malcolm "Mac," Roy, and Debra. Anna was a devoted and loving mother and she adored her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Anna looked forward to visiting relatives in New Jersey and her camping trips in Maine with her family.

Anna was a hard worker; from January of 1964 until her retirement in November of 1991 she was employed as a Quality Control Lead Inspector for Sweetheart Plastics in Wilmington. Anna made many life-long friends at Sweetheart Plastics and even after her retirement she enjoyed getting together with her former co-workers and going out to dinner.

Anna will be remembered as talented crocheter who made countless gifts and afghans for her family and friends. She was an AVID Red Sox Fan who got to live through three World Series wins; this thrilled her.

Anna was a very kind and gentle lady who always put her family first; she will be greatly missed by all who knew and loved her.

Anna was the devoted mother of Malcolm J. "Mac" Anderson & wife Kathleen of Tewksbury, Roy J. Anderson & wife Deborah and Debra J. Anderson all of Wilmington. Loving "Grandma" of Tammy Damiano, Derek Anderson, Kerry Meisinger, Kurt Anderson, Stephanie Bette and great-grandchildren Adrianna Damiano, Ashley & Hailey Anderson, Evelyn & Caroline Meisinger. Daughter of the late John H. and Ella J.

(Yale) Mullen.

Family & friends will gather for a Funeral Service at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, on Friday, Oct. 20 at 11:30 a.m. Interment will follow in Wildwood Cemetery. Visiting Hours will be held at the Funeral Home on Thursday, Oct. 19 from 4 - 8 p.m.

George P. Hachey, Sr.

Enlisted in the United States Army

George P. Hachey, Sr., fondly known as "Uncle George" to his family and many friends, age 78, of Gilford, NH, formerly of Burlington and Wilmington, died peacefully with his family at his side on Oct. 14, 2017.

George was born in Winthrop, MA on Aug. 16, 1939; he was the dear son of the late Augustus and Louise (Slack) Hachey. George was raised and educated in Somerville, MA and a graduate of Somerville High School.

George enlisted in the United States Army in 1961; proudly serving his country.

In 1974, George moved to Burlington, MA, where he lived for many years and raised a wonderful family. George loved his family with all his heart; he was a very devoted father and an "awesome" grandpa; they all had a lot of fun throughout the years.

George worked as a machinist for the M.B.T.A., where he worked for many years and made countless friends before he retired in 2006.

George loved life and he lived it to the fullest; he was always a kid at heart and very adventurous. From his early days, George had a passion for motorcycles and enjoyed riding with friends all over the east coast. Never a quitter; when George's health declined and he could no longer ride his Harley he went out and bought a trike and continued riding.

George was known to be the "life of the party"; if you were with George, you were having a great time. In his younger years, George was a drummer in the "Joey C" band and he loved every minute of performing. His sense of humor was unmatched; he loved to make people laugh with a good joke or prank. He always wanted everyone around him to have fun and not take life too seriously.

George was a member of the Fr. Croke Council Knights of Columbus in Wilmington and worked as their function manager for several years. George loved the camaraderie with his fellow Knights, he enjoyed going to the club to volunteer his time or to hang out with his buddies; he always knew how to have fun.

For many years, George would go to the lakes region of New Hampshire where he fell in love with the area and decided it was where he wanted to retire. Always a Harley enthusiast, George enjoyed "Biker week" in Laconia; where there was always a party going on and everyone was having fun. George also liked to take everyone out on his boat to enjoy the lake and see the beauty of the area.

George was quite a character and he had the ability to make friends wherever he went; he took a job at Patrick's Pub in Laconia and became the "Norm" from Cheers; where everyone knew his name. He amassed a large group of friends in Laconia who he considered his "second family" and they referred to him as "Uncle George."

In his spare time, George enjoyed going to his yard sales and hunting for a bargain; not only for himself but for his friends as well.

George will be fondly remembered for his "larger than life" personality, his infectious smile and his ability to make others laugh. He was very kind, caring, and giving; the kind of person who would go out of his way to do for others. George loved his family and friends unconditionally and he will forever be in their hearts.

George was the devoted father of George Hachey Jr. & wife Heidi of Somerville, Laurie Michelangelo & husband Sante of Wilmington and Michele Gasper & husband Jay of North Andover, loving "Grandpa" of Nicholas & Christopher Michelangelo and Arielle & Alyssa Hachey.

Beloved companion of Barbara Brennick of Wilmington. Cherished son of the late Augustus and Louise (Slack) Hachey, dear brother of Anna Webber of Manchester, NH, Gloria Russo of Chelmsford, the late James Hachey and Carol Thornton.

George is also survived by many nieces, nephews, friends, and his friends in Laconia, NH who were like a second family to him.

Family and friends will gather at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, MA on Saturday, Oct. 21 at 10 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, MA at 11 a.m. which will conclude with Military Honors.

Visiting Hours will be held at the Funeral Home on Friday, Oct. 20 from 4 - 8 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, donations in George's memory may be made to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, 814 Elm St., Suite #300, Manchester, NH 03101. www.nicholsfuneralhome.com

Craig Scott Gould

Served in the army; worked for H. P. Hood

Craig Scott Gould, 75, of Tewksbury, formerly of Everett and North Reading, passed away Oct. 5, 2017 from congestive heart failure.

He was the son of the late Beverly Ivester Monroe and Payson "Pasty" Gould, both of North Reading.

He has been described by a friend as a "good guy and loyal friend." He was a wonderful brother to his sister, Deb, always offering an ear to listen and spending time at her home in Maine.

Craig loved to drive... anywhere, as long as he could take a "nap" along the way. He particularly enjoyed driving his yellow Jeep, often without the top or doors.

After being discharged from the Army he worked many years at Lewis Candy Company in Malden. Through the years he worked as a short order cook for Howard Johnson's at the Route 1 rotary, in Saugus, followed by working for Monroe Oil Company in North Reading, several "second" jobs to stay busy and eventually he went to work for H.P. Hood, Charlestown.

His first job with the company was home delivery in the Andover area and when he had the opportunity he worked as a tractor trailer driver throughout the state of Massachusetts. He retired in the early 2000's after 31 years.

He kept track of the drivers that he had worked with and often would meet them for coffee or just talk to them on the phone. He actually tried to stay in touch with many, many people that he had become friends with, whether from the Army or any of the jobs that he worked.

The late 1990's he discovered books on tape and would listen to them for hours while he was driving, years later this led to him purchasing a Kindle after he retired. He loved it and would read several books at once.

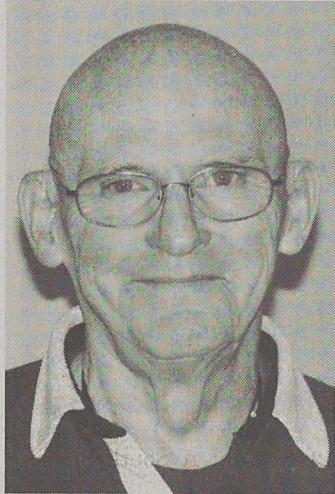

Craig loved music... from the three tenors and opera to older country music to show tunes to rock 'n roll (up to the late '80's)... just about everything.

He loved movies and collected, particularly James Bond, nearly as many of those as the music cd's. He always seemed to find a new interest... from cameras and photography in the '60's and '70's to joining the Andover Sportmen's Club which sparked an interest in target practice with bow & arrow and pistols.

Wednesday nights were always reserved for "cards with the guys" at the Club. In recent years, he attended the Tewksbury Senior Center, making another set of friends while playing cribbage.

While his wife was alive they took several trips to Florida and many places between there and New England, they both really enjoyed all of the venues at Disney.

Craig is survived by his sister, Deb Desjardins and her partner, David Barrett of Auburn, ME, his brother, Bob Colburn and his wife of Placida, FL, his sister Cheryl White and her husband of Lebanon, NH, his brother Kevin Gould of Grafton, NH, his sister-in-law, Marianne Colburn of Brooksville, FL.

Also, survived by two aunts, many nieces and nephews, great nieces and nephews and many cousins. His wife Barbara (Mew) Gould predeceased him in August 2013.

Calling Hours will be held at the Crowell Funeral Home, 19 Bow St., North Reading on Saturday, Oct. 21 from 10 to 11:20 a.m., followed by a Funeral Service at 11:30 a.m. Interment will be in Riverside Cemetery in North Reading. In lieu of flowers please make donations in his memory to MSPCA, Nevins Farm, 400 Broadway, Methuen, MA 01844-2052.

Neil G. Wetzler

Enjoyed leading inline skating tours

We celebrate the life and mourn the loss of Neil G. Wetzler, 55, of Waltham, MA (formerly of Wilmington MA). He died peacefully at his home on Tuesday, Oct. 10, 2017 after a courageous battle with cancer.

Neil was surrounded by family and friends as he completed his journey to the light. Upon Neil's passing, a dear friend of Neil's, Reverend Bob Butler (formerly of Wilmington) gathered with family and friends to offer a time of reflection, consolation and prayer.

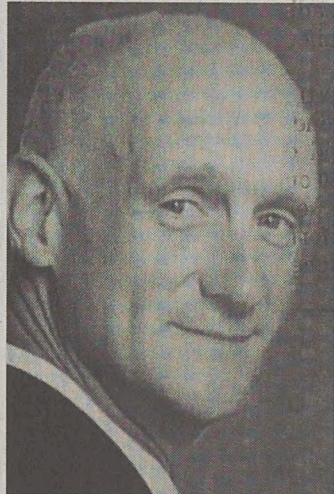

Neil's love of family and friends was reflected in his intense loyalty, generosity, kindness, and dependability. He was always there when you needed him and most of his time in life was spent giving to others.

Neil was a businessman, but in his free time he enjoyed leading inline skating tours in American cities, reading, watching movies, collecting historical and unique artifacts, cooking wonderful meals, traveling and spending time with family and friends.

Neil was loved by many and those who knew him would describe him as "one of a kind." Neil was a loving and caring son, brother, uncle, partner and friend.

Neil lived in Italy for an extended period of time where he learned to speak the language and immersed himself in the history of the country. Over the past 30 years, Neil made biannual trips to Annagh, Gort, Co. Galway, Ireland, the birthplace of his mother. There he spent several months a year with his beloved Uncle Frank Walsh and his beloved Aunt Sheila Fitzgerald, in addition to time with his cousins. This time was precious to him and he was loved and cherished by many in Ireland.

Rose M. (DiTucci) Raposo

Talented saxophone player in high school

Rose M. (DiTucci) Raposo, age 88, of Wilmington, passed away peacefully at the Winchester Hospital on Oct. 15, 2017.

Rose was born on Sept. 23, 1931, in Malden, MA; she was the cherished daughter of the late Salvatore and Mary (Petrillo) DiTucci. Rose was raised and educated in Somerville, MA; she was a talented saxophone player and while she was in the Somerville High School Band she met her "sweetheart" Paul Raposo.

Rose and Paul married in 1951 and together they raised three wonderful children; Paul, Kathleen, and Steven. Rose was a very devoted and loving wife, mother, grandmother, and a wonderful homemaker. She was also a talented seamstress in Wilmington for many years.

Rose was the beloved wife of the late Paul M. Raposo, devoted mother of Paul Raposo and Juli of New Hampshire, Kathleen Raposo, and Steven Raposo & wife Tina of Wilmington.

Loving grandmother of Sherry Raposo, Cassandra Raposo, Tony Raposo, Sean Hickford, Danielle Cotton, Steven Raposo and the late Krystal Raposo.

Rose is also survived by several great-grandchildren as well as many nieces and nephews.

Family and friends will gather at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Friday, Oct. 20 at 9 a.m. followed by a Mass of Christian Burial in St. Dorothy's Church, Main Street (Rte. 38) Wilmington at 10 a.m. Interment will take place in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Visiting Hours will be held at the Funeral Home on Thursday, Oct. 19 from 4 - 8 p.m.

In lieu of flowers donation in Rose's memory may be made to the Wilmington Senior Center, 15 School Street, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Tewksbury chosen for Material Recovery program

TEWKSBURY — The Town of Tewksbury was chosen for a MassDEP Sustainable Materials Recovery Program (SMRP), rewarding the community for stringent and efficient recycling programs implemented throughout the town. For the municipalities efforts, Tewksbury is set to receive $10,800 from the Commonwealth for efforts made to divert hazardous and recyclable material from ending up in public landfills.

"The Town of Tewksbury and its recycling committee, under Chair Loretta Ryan's purview, has done a terrific job," said Representative James Miceli after receiving the announcement from the Department of Environmental Protection. "This money will undoubtedly help them set up another hazardous waste disposal day, expand their efforts in intercepting toxic products before they are thrown into landfills, and to educate our youth on proper recycling techniques. I know each year our program gets a little better, thanks to their hard work, and I am happy to continue supporting them from the state level."

The SMRP refunds towns on a point system, encouraging the highest standards for recycling programs to meet, and assigning a score in each category from 1 to 5. Towns earning 6 or more points earn a minimum of $2,100 dollars, and for each additional point achieved by a town or municipality additional money is returned.

Towns are allowed to spend SMRP money on items such as expanding school waste disposal programs, purchasing environmentally friendly and chemical free cleaning supplies for classrooms, purchase additional recycling equipment, or distribute literature related to programs offered.

Osgood Hill. The mansion was built in 1885 by textile tycoon Moses Stevens. The Victorian-era estate was designed by Ernest Bowditch, a master landscape architect of the Gilded Age.

The Stevens Estate in North Andover

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent

paige@yourtowncrier.com

During a recent soccer tournament, we took the chance to explore the Stevens Estate in North Andover. A quick jog off of Osgood Street over near Butcher Boy Market and Lawrence Municipal Airport, the Stevens Estate's grounds are open to the public. The impressive gatehouse, carriage house and residence is owned by the Town of North Andover and used for private events such as weddings, fundraisers and business meetings.

The elegant 1880's mansion sits on Osgood hill, a property that has family friendly walking trails which are enjoyable without committing to a serious hike.

The mansion is part of a larger 237-acre parcel owned by North Andover and managed by the Friends of North Andover Trails. The property was owned by Moses T. Stevens, heir to an extensive East Coast textile mill business. The house was built for his wife who threw grand garden parties. Large outdoor gatherings were the hallmark of the estate, drawing people from miles around.

According to the Friends of North Andover Trails website, the property was donated to Boston University and used as a conference center for many years. Under threat of development, the property was acquired via Town Meeting vote and is now managed by a board of trustees, a move that sought to protect the town's drinking water supply at bordering Lake Cochichewick.

North Andover used its Community Preservation funds to acquire additional land around the hill and to maintain the property.

We chose a short walk up Half Mile Hill, rewarded by a sweeping view of Lake Cochichewick, flanked by the surrounding woods. Fall foliage was just beginning to ramp up its color and two Adirondack chairs provided a spot to just pause and enjoy the scenery.

While most of the hill is forested, part of the hill is hayed regularly, providing an open field habitat beneficial for numerous plant and animal species. An interpretive sign explained that bobolinks nest in the tall grasses of the hill, a species at risk due to habitat destruction. Three miles of trails circle and cross the hill, and folks were arriving, cups of coffee in hand and their four-legged friends alongside, clearly having made the hill a part of their weekend routine.

We explored stone walls, the open meadow, and hunted for a letterbox while we were there, and surely will return to enjoy more of the trail network. The trails of North Andover are a terrific bet if you want to get out for a woods walk or gentle hill climb but not have to invest too much time or endure much rugged terrain. www.fonat.org

Carrillo carves out ambitious future

By MATT FRONDUTO

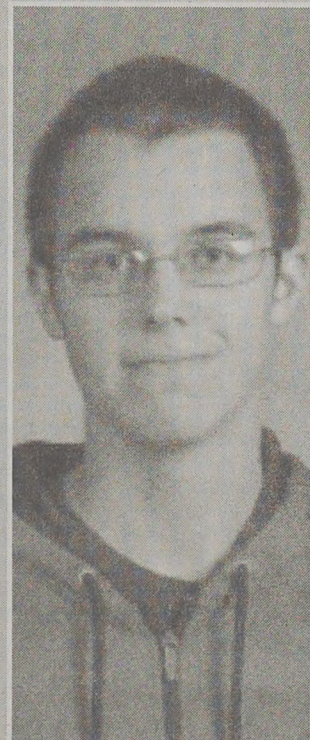

Dom Carrillo is not your average, everyday high-school student, unless of course, the average high school student aims high and is wildly ambitious, which many aren't.

Dom has done a terrific job at curating a prolific and impressive high school career, participating in sports, excelling in his classes, and looking eagerly looking ahead to see what the future holds.

First and foremost, Dom is a longtime member of TMHS's own tennis team, as he has been playing the sport for multiple years and has become a solid, reliable member of the team. He will be the first to tell you that he has gained a great amount from the experience, ranging from improved skills with regards to the sport to several new friends.

It is for precisely this reason that Tewksbury's tennis team should not get lost in the shuffle of more high profile spring sports, such as softball or track, as it is one of the few sports that everyone can truly benefit from in some way.

When it comes to other forms of leisure, Dom's focus lies less with films and television, but instead with video games, specifically Bungie Studios' critically acclaimed Halo series, which has sold nearly 75 million copies spanning over the past two decades.

However, when he is not relaxing, Carrillo can likely be found working hard for a few of his favorite classes, Engineering and Robotics. Both of these elective courses clearly deal with engineering and architecture, so it would not take a rocket scientist to find out exactly what interests Dom going forward.

Looking to pursue a career in one of these fields, Dom has primarily set his sights on a few well-respected colleges, Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI), University of Massachusetts Lowell (UMass Lowell), and Boston University (BU), all of which have above average engineering programs.

In fact, not only is WPI exceptional in most technical fields, but it is often revered for having one of the most prominent Technical Arts programs in the country, which has quite a bit of overlap with Engineering.

All of these institutions would fit Carrillo extremely well, and whatever choice he makes will, without a doubt, be the right one. One fact remains undeniable regardless of his final choice, Dom Carrillo is ready for the world. The question to be asked is actually: Is the world ready for Dom Carrillo?

STUDENT PROFILES

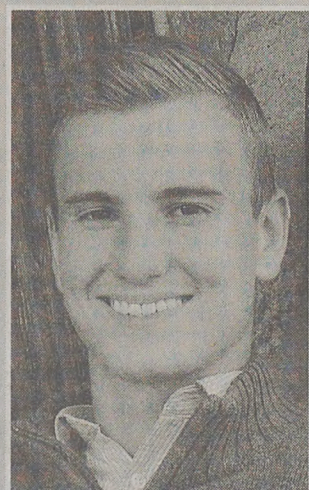

By TROY ACCONCIA

It was previously thought that a student must not be able to balance being apart of many activities with getting good grades. Everything about TMHS senior, Nathan Ell, defies this claim and then some.

18-year-old Ell has lived in Tewksbury for his entire life with his parents, Doug and Ann, and his brother — who is currently a senior at UConn — Eric. Nathan had always been a scholar during elementary and middle school days, but stepped up even more when high school entered the foreground.

Averaging an impressive 4.28/4.5 while taking exceptionally difficult classes is almost laughable. Ell has taken courses such as AP (Advanced Placement) Chemistry, AP Government, and AP U.S. History, while still maintaining this insane GPA! Nathan's academic success is just one aspect of his surplus of high school achievements.

Although he has been a varsity athlete in football and baseball for multiple years, Nate has never been one to shy away from other TMHS clubs. After being apart of meaningful organizations such as Best Buddies and DECA, Ell easily made his way into National Honor Society. It is clear that Nathan is big part of school, but out of school he is still a force to be reckoned with.

Ell's work experience is crazy! He began working at Tewksbury Sports Club in 2015 as a maintenance worker and is still there! Not only has he done that job, but he also started working as a busser at Angelina's Italian Restaurant this year. At this point Ell is just bathing in cash. Wait! There's more! From 2015 to 2017, Nathan even worked as a busser at Tewksbury Country Club. It is evident that Nate is a professional at cleaning with all this experience.

This is where Ell's future comes into play. Ell knew that he still had more to contribute. His top college choices display just that.

With college decisions quickly approaching, Nate has narrowed his search down to prestigious schools such as West Point Academy, Norwich University, and Air Force Academy. That's right, Ell would like to serve our country

"I want to join the military because I want to do my part for my country. I also feel as if my military experience would help me get a job in the employment area that I want to be in later in life."

It is a nationalistic, working-class attitude like this, the reason why Nate would be an important part of the U.S. Military and why any of these academies would be lucky to have him.

Ell in one word? Heart. It takes someone with an immense amount of heart to succeed in this tough world, and man does Nate have that. Whether it is through the military or his own personal experiences, Ell will have one heck of a life.

Community Choice program continues

TEWKSBURY — Power to the people continues, as the Town of Tewksbury announces that it will be continuing its Community Choice Power Supply Program.

The town considered suspending the program when costs were estimated to be above National Grid's Basic Service rate. However, the program's aggregation rate has been set and is below National Grid's Residential Basic Service rate.

The program's new rate is $0.12497 for all rate classes and will be in effect from November 2017 through May 2018 (beginning and ending on the days of the month that your meter is read).

National Grid's Residential Basic Service rate will be $0.12673 from Nov. 1, 2017 through April 30, 2018. All consumers currently enrolled in the program will remain in the program. An opt-out notification letter will be mailed to all consumers currently on National Grid Basic Service who haven't been mailed to previously.

If you have any questions, please visit www.colonialpowergroup.com/tewksbury or call Colonial Power Group, the town's aggregation consultant, at (866) 485-5858 ext. 1.

Sex trafficking survivor tells her story

vivor, and through more talking and understanding she learned how to think about herself as a survivor rather than a victim.

Her understanding allowed her to dedicate her life to stopping this from happening to other young people like herself. She became a mentor for young girls with My Life My Choice, a nonprofit devoted to helping youth at risk for trafficking, and she started sharing her story and working within the National Survival Network for their benefit. She's been giving her testimony more and more over the past five years since she created her organization Bags of Hope, and she just published a book about her experience in January in honor of human trafficking awareness month.

Her book, The Diary of Jasmine Grace, is made up of excerpts from her personal journal entries from the time of her life when she was trapped in the sex industry and things she's written since then.

"I love to write and I used to jot down all of my thoughts," Marino included. "The trauma really does a number on your brain."

She shared how important it is for her book and others like it to reach young women and men going through the same things so that they can be reached, supported, and potentially saved.

It's her significant role in raising awareness and advocacy in the anti-trafficking movement that allowed Christina Haines and the UMC Social Concerns Committee to set up Sunday's talk.

"Human trafficking is a crime that thrives in the shadows, and it's our church's duty to bring it to the light," she said. "We don't want this to happen to young people or vulnerable adults; we can protect our community from human trafficking to make sure that no person falls through the cracks."

The way that they wanted to do their part was to educate the community and complete a service project.

Haines says that the talk is one that leaves you asking how you can help.

"[Marino]... got so many questions as people connect back to the news stories they'd heard and comments from friends and acquaintances."

She assured the audience that the event helped to establish that this is a covert crime happening all around us, and that there are things that we can be doing as a community to stop it. What drove the Social Concerns Committee to this issue was their desire to support survivors and bring up real topics that can be discussed in a safe place.

Something Marino felt it necessary at the event to talk about the role of prostitution in sex trafficking and how she believes that sex should never be work.

"Sex trafficking includes prostitution; you're trafficked, and you're in a situation that you wouldn't have chosen if you had a choice... things you can't get out of."

She stood by the statement that prostitution is the world's oldest form of oppression for women and children.

According to The Polaris Project, who runs the National Human Trafficking Hotline, there have been more than 22,000 reported sex trafficking cases in the United States since 2007. Marino mentioned that the supply is created based on the demand.

"Who's demanding it is your average white male between the ages of 20 and 60 who are dealing with sexual addiction and brokenness," she said. "We're dealing with a culture in society that thinks it's OK to buy and sell humans, and that's just not OK."

The U.S. Department of State website includes a variety of ways that regular people can do their part in stopping this human trafficking industry: looking for indicators of trafficking, reporting possible cases, being conscious of other goods that might be supporting the industry, sharing opinions with the local government, and participating or hosting fundraisers and events that benefit those affected by human trafficking.

To start, Bags of Hope has their annual donation event at Trinity Evangelical Church in North Reading on Nov. 30, where they're asking for donations of hats and gloves, socks, toiletries, trail mix, and more for the stuffing of the bags. For more information about Jasmine Grace, her book, and bags of hope, visit her website at jasminegrace.org.

School Committee close to working with search firm

By LIZZIE MCDERMOTT
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — The long search for a new Superintendent of Schools continues in Wilmington. As of the School Committee meeting on Oct. 11, the New England School Development Council (the firm selected at the Sept. 27 meeting to assist in the search) had been contacted.

The next step for the committee was to create a subcommittee to negotiate the town's contract with the firm.

After some discussion about when such negotiations would take place, committee members Jennifer Bryson and Thomas Talbot volunteered to take places on the subcommittee. Based upon member availability, such negotiations will most likely begin the week of Oct. 23.

Once negotiations have been completed, the firm will begin collaboration with the School Committee to select candidates for the position.

fund, offered by the Wilmington High CATS (Choral and Theater Support) group.

This event would not be possible were it not for the abundant talent and dedication of the Friends Haunted Productions team. The Friends team works tirelessly in the weeks leading up to the event to place people and props throughout the property, creating the "delightfully terrifying experience" for which the Haunted Woods has become known.

The 2017 event will feature both new frights and old favorites, and Valenti is enthusiastic that this will be the haunt's best year yet.

"I really look forward to seeing guests react to our attractions," Valenti said.

"I'm always trying to think of how we can make it even scarier the next time."

The Haunted Wood is a fundraiser for the Wilmington Town Museum. It is located at the Harnden Tavern property, 430 Salem St. in Wilmington, on Oct. 20, 21, 27 and 28 (Fridays and Saturdays) from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Donations of $10 for adults and $7 for students are requested.

Foundation helps those with addiction

Since its creation, the Brady Foundation has hosted several events to help promote its message. Some in the past have been an annual candlelight vigil and a 5K run. At the upcoming "Music on a Mission" event, the foundation's message will be conveyed through various performances. Performers include professional acting by the Improbable Players, music by TuneFoolery, and dance by Debi's Dance Studio of Wilmington.

Marcou will also be performing with a live band, and she is no stranger to the music industry. Recently, she released a song and corresponding music video entitled "Long Way From Home" based on Brady's death and experiences with addiction.

In regards to the purpose of the "Music on a Mission" fundraiser, Marcou states that its goal is to raise money to open a recovery and wellness center within the community.

"Often times people struggling don't know where to go or how to stay sober in their recovery. Often times families feel alone or ashamed," she explained "We are bringing resources together to help bridge this gap."

Tickets for "Music on a Mission" can be purchased online at www.bradyfoundation.com/events for $10. Remaining tickets will be sold at the door for an increased price, but purchasing online before the show is encouraged. An exhibition featuring resources focusing on addiction awareness, suicide prevention, and general health and wellness will begin at 6 p.m., and performances in the auditorium will begin at 6:45 p.m.

A bake sale, raffle table, and 50/50 raffle will be going on as well.

No proposal yet for detox center

Champoux elaborated upon the second question by saying that Acute Treatment Services could have simply gone straight to the Planning Board to proceed with establishing their business at this site.

The proposal at the Board of Selectmen meeting was a way of introducing the business to the town. He also said that there is not currently a proposal out for vote right now, but that abutters and neighbors would be notified promptly should such a proposal be introduced.

The discussion extended into the New Business portion of the meeting, when Selectman Michael McCoy proposed another perspective on how best to address this situation.

McCoy said that he agrees with residents that "(the location) is not suitable," and that as such, he has created an article calling for a Special Town Meeting. The principal use of the article would be to exclude this detox center, and to address the proper zoning for such a center in town.

This news was met with the enthusiastic support of many residents present but some apprehension from the rest of the board. An issue raised by Selectman Greg Bendel in response to this proposal was the cost of such a Town Meeting. Between staffing and facilities, that cost would be between $7,500 and $8,500, a price that McCoy said would be more than worth it.

It should also be noted that in a separate incident involving the proposed detox center, Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Daniel Veerman reportedly referred to those battling addiction as "junkies" on his personal Facebook page back in August.

While his board hasn't discussed the detox center, as no proposal has been brought forward to the town's ZBA, his comment could cause people to question his objectivity on the matter should the detox center come before his board for a vote. (He stated that his alleged remark was not directed at the proposed detox center.)

Veerman said to the Lowell Sun, who received a screenshot of the alleged comment from an anonymous resident, that he has "no opinion on the detox center because it hasn't been presented to the Board of Appeals."

He also said that he had no comment as far as the actual post went because "it has nothing to do with the (detox center) application."

Dad (Tony A) would be so proud

Wilmington resident Michelle Alonardo was the first female to cross the finish line during the third annual Tony Alonardo Memorial 5K Road Race, which is named after her father, held on Saturday morning. Michelle finishes as the top female runner

WILMINGTON - On Friday night and even before the race began on Saturday morning, Michelle Alonardo said she was joking when she thought she could be the first female finisher to come across the line during the third annual 5K event in memory of her father Tony.

Even her mother thought she was joking.

"Last year I asked Tony for a sign and he gave us a rainbow and again I asked for a sign and this year his little girl won," said Tony's wife Donna with a big smile. "She is so much like Tony. The three of us (Michelle, Sara and I) were all supposed to walk together and finish together and (Friday night), Michelle said 'I think I'm going to run, and I think I'm going to win it'."

"Tony was somebody who said 'I'm going on a diet to lose ten pounds' and he just did it. He would just put his mind to something and do it and Michelle is just like that. Last night she said 'I think I can win this' and she was pulling up the times from last year's race and was saying 'I can beat her and her, and that time' and we were all like 'I thought you were walking? And aren't you a bit overconfident?'"

"And doesn't she go out there and win it. Tony would have been the proudest of the bunch to see that," continued Mom.

Michelle was indeed the first female finisher. She was sixth overall with a time of 22:39. As she crossed the finish line, her St. Lawrence University women's ice hockey team formed a bridge for her to go under, and the 21-year-old backed up her words, all while sporting the biggest grin.

"This is my Dad's race so I came into thinking I could win it and then I did which was awesome," she said. "I kind of surprised myself. It started out as a joke and then (when I was on the course) it turned more serious."

She said that once she got past the incline on Wildwood Street and got her legs going a bit, she felt very relaxed.

"A mile in, after I got over that initial first hill, I said 'hey this isn't so bad' and one mile turned into two and I just said 'I have one mile to go and I can do it'. It was awesome," she said.

After finishing with her 22:39 time, Alonardo would be competing again - just 4.5 hours later, she would line up as a left winger on the St.

Lawrence Ice Hockey team in their game against Merrimack College. St. Lawrence defeated Merrimack the night before and the two teams played to a scoreless tie on Saturday afternoon.

"We won (on Friday) night so we're 2-1-1 and we're hoping to keep it going," she said.

Speaking of keeping things going, Tony's longtime co-worker friend Paul Scovotti once again was the overall winner for the third straight year. This time the 45-year-old finished at 19:23, compared to 20:44 last year and then 18:57 two years ago. He didn't want to talk about his accomplishments.

"It's all about Tony and it's always about Tony, Donna and their girls," he said. "Tony is always in my heart and I think about him every single day. He was such a great guy. I worked with Tony for almost twenty years."

"It's tough to see someone that young pass away. He was just such a great guy. Every person that he ever met he had a connection with in some way. I was fortunate enough to be able to work with him for such a long time."

"It's not just me, but a few other guys who Tony worked

Third Annual Alonardo Memorial 5K Event a success once again

WILMINGTON - Although the rain was off and on for most of the event, that certainly didn't put the damper on the spirits of the 158 people who participated and crossed the finish line during the third annual Tony Alonardo Memorial 5K Walk/Run held Saturday morning.

The Town Common was filled with family members, friends, co-workers, former in-town hockey players, the St. Lawrence and UMass-Dartmouth Women's Hockey teams, as well as complete strangers, who all came out to join the fun and most importantly remember such a special person in Tony Alonardo.

Alonardo, 49, passed away in April of 2015. Before his passing, he was a beloved tion, some of the proceeds raised has helped defray college tuition costs for Tony's two daughters, Sara and Michelle.

"It overwhelms us - every year," said his wife Donna. "But that's our goal for people to remember Tony, what he stood for. He would have been the first one out there helping any way he could if it was somebody else. It was such a great turnout once again. It means so much to all of us."

Although the course was the same route between Middlesex Ave, Wildwood and Federal Street, before coming back to Middlesex/Church Street, this year's event was a little different as everyone was wearing 'pink', no 'salmon' t-shirts.

WHS Gymnasium Dedication, October 28

The Wildcat Athletic Alumni and Friends (W.A.A.F.) is proud to announce the official dedication of the Wilmington High School gymnasium as is becomes the Lawrence "Larry" H. Cushing gymnasium on Saturday, October 28th at 11:00 A.M.

The dedication will feature favorite pastimes during Cushing's tenure as a WHS teacher, coach and athletic director, including Larry's favorite May-Pole dance. In conjunction with the physical education department, elementary school students are invited to participate in the dances during the dedication. The dedication will also feature a brief program, emceed by Wilmington's Jim Stewart as a tribute to Larry's Life.

Cushing was an accomplished athlete, U.S. Army

Seabee and above all, a true community member bleeding blue and white. He dedicated 28 years to the Wilmington school system, working as a teacher, coach and athletic trainer. His selfless care and dedication to the students of Wilmington was impeccable, something which shaped the lives of hundreds of WHS students whom had the pleasure of meeting "Mr. Cushing." Many Wilmington High alumni acclaim Larry as one of the biggest role models in their life, someone who inspired them to become their better and bigger self.

"...And Wilmington is a better community for us...and for our children, because of Larry Cushing."

Join W.A.A.F. for this special dedication on October 28th. The dedication is open to all.

WHS Football team improves to 5-1; sets up big clash with Stoneham on Friday

‘Cats win with 47 points, but take step backwards with overall play

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
WILMINGTON - It's believed that the previous time the Wilmington High School Football team scored 47 points in a game came in 2007 when Ernie Mello rushed for 375 yards and scored seven touchdowns in the Wildcats 47-33 win over Lawrence.

On Friday night, the Wildcats didn't have that type of an individual performance but the 'Cats did manage to chalk up 203 rushing yards, 387 total yards of offense, while defensively the team scored twice on two blocked punts. All of that led to a 47-30 win over a winless Burlington team.

Despite the 'Cats improving to 5-1 with the victory, it seemed as if Wilmington took a few steps back in this one.

"We really didn't play well. In all three phases we didn't play well tonight," said first-year head coach Craig Turner. "That's a credit to Burlington as that quarterback (Khyle Pena) is a real good player. He can throw the ball. I know Coach (Dan) McKay is going to get them going. They really just had their way with us throwing the ball. We were there to make plays too and we were there, but we just didn't capitalize on the chances.

"I'm really not happy with the way we played tonight, but at the end of the day we were able to get out of here with a win. Anytime you can do that in this league, you take it."

Wilmington came out very lethargic in this one and then fell asleep early in the fourth quarter allowing the Red Devils to climb back into the game. Wilmington had leads of 7-0, 25-7 and 39-14 after each of the first three quarters and could never put Burlington away.

"No, we couldn't," said Turner. "I don't think our kids were locked in. I just told the kids that it starts with me at the top. The coaches, the players, all of us just didn't have it tonight. Luckily we got the win but we know that we're going to have to be a lot better next week as Stoneham is really tough."

This Friday, Wilmington will travel to Stoneham for a huge Middlesex League match-up beginning at 7:00 pm. It'll be a battle for second place in the Freedom Division, a battle playoff seedings for the 'Cats in Division 4 North and Stoneham in Division 6 North, as well as a battle against former Wildcats' coach Bob Almeida, who has quickly turned the Spartans program around into a league and divisional contender every year.

If Wilmington is going to beat Stoneham, it will certainly have to improve on defensively - especially against the pass. Pena completed 26-of-44 attempts for 317 yards with 4 touchdowns on Friday night. Wilmington's secondary was simply giving up too much room at the line of scrimmage.

"The idea all week was not too (give them so much room)," said Turner. "It seemed like we were. It seemed like we were six or seven yards off of them (at the line of scrimmage) and we were giving them free yards. We have told the kids since day one that nothing is for free around here. Everything has to be earned.

"I felt like our kids weren't confident and thought the (Burlington players) would run by them. They have a good group of receivers. They really do. We just didn't execute. We made a lot of uncharacteristic and little mistakes. The little mistakes hurt us big time. The miss tackles, then there was a ball that should have been intercepted and it got tipped and (led to a Burlington) touchdown. It was just that kind of night."

The game was scoreless until very late in the first quarter. Burlington elected to punt on fourth-and-ten from its own 45. The punt was blocked by Kyle Kenyon. The ball went straight up in the air where Dylan Bresnahan caught it at the 40 yard line and went in for the defensive score. Adam Bishop kicked his first of three PATs on the night.

Burlington came right back as Pena connected with Ryan O'Halloran (9 catches for 117 yards) on a 43-yard TD pass. The ball went through and off the fingertips of two Wildcat defenders and into the hands of O'Halloran for the score. Cam Wheelock booted the kick to tie the game up at 7-7.

Wilmington then countered with its own punch as it took just four plays before Tyler Roberts took the ball off right tackle for a 55-yard touchdown run. The kick was blocked and Wilmington led 13-7. Just two plays later, Bresnahan recovered a fumble after Kenyon sacked Pena for a 7-yard loss. Two plays after that, Wilmington quarterback Graham Smith (6-for-14, 184 yards, 3 TDs, 2 INTs) found Justin Fraser for a 32-yard TD. The rush conversion failed.

Then with 18 seconds left in the first half, the duo connected again, this time Smith found Fraser (3 catches, 104 yards) for an 8-yard strike (although it appeared as if the ball did hit the ground) and the rush attempt failed giving Wilmington a 25-7 halftime lead.

Burlington opened the third quarter with a 10-play, 58-yard drive capped off by a 13-yard pass from Pena to Ryan Culhane (8 catches, 120 yards). The kick was good making it 25-14.

Again Wilmington answered with a quick 5-play, 70-yard drive. John Kenney (15 rushes for 102 yards, also one reception for 43 yards) took the ball the first four plays for a combined 16 yards, before Smith rolled out to his right, and sent a nice spiral to Fraser for what ended up to be a 54-yard score.

"We continue to work on that and we're going to continue to try to get (Fraser) the ball more," said Turner. "Smith was better and he continues to get better every week. We changed things around, protection wise for him so to make it easier for him to get the ball out quicker and he has taken advantage of that.

"We are getting more consistent throwing the ball and that's going to help us."

Kenyon blocked his second punt of the night and fell on the loose ball in the end zone for Wilmington's next score. Burlington responded with a pair of touchdowns, the second with 4:36 left to cut the deficit to 39-30.

The onside kick followed and Wilmington recovered and three plays later, Kenney scored on a 17-yard run to seal the victory.

Defensively for Wilmington besides the two blocked punts, Kenney, Peter Marino and Connor Benoit each had an interception. Wilmington also had five QB sacks including two from Kenyon and one each from Brendan Ross and Roberts, while Roberts and Marken Nerestant combined for the other.

Wilmington High's Bailey Smith intercepted a pass on this play and returned it for eight yards in the team's earlier season loss to Melrose. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com).

Golf team advances to D3 North sectionals

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
NORTH READING -- It was a bumpy ride at times for the Wilmington High Golf team this season, with several close losses threatening to derail their season. Indeed, at times, it looked like their goal of qualifying for the post season would have to remain just a dream.

But when they needed it most, even after all of the close losses, in their final match of the season, the Wildcats came up with their biggest win of the season, routing non-league rival North Reading by a score of 52 1/2-37 1/2 at Hillview Country Club, improving their record to 5-7 overall and 4-7 in the Middlesex

League, allowing them to finish second in the league behind Burlington, who finished 5-6 within the circuit.

The Wildcats did not know for sure that they had clinched a spot in the tour-namment until Tuesday morning when they found out that Melrose had lost their final league match on Monday to drop them to 3-7-1 in the league, clinching second place for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats will now compete in the Division 2 North Sectional Tournament at Black Swan Country Club in Georgetown next Monday. "It is only the second time in my twelve years here that we have qualified for the post season, so it is really great way for these seniors to go out," Wilmington coach Steve Lynch said.

And it will be the seniors who will represent the Wildcats in the post season. Lynch is allowed to pick five players to bring to the tournament, and he will be looking for big performances from his senior group of tri-captains Billy McEvoy, Dan Gracia and Jake Fulkerson, along with fellow seniors Jack Boyle, Bobby Lord and Ben Maynard.

It was two other seniors who helped the Wildcats clinch their spot in the post season during their regular season finale against North Reading, as Nolan Kane and Carl Beatrice helped lead them to victory, with Kane, playing out of the number eight position, rolling to victory in his match by a score of 6 1/2-2 1/2, and Beatrice taking his match 5 and 4. Junior Chris Stokes, meanwhile, playing out of the number two slot, also took his match by a score of 5 and 4.

"Everyone did well in this match," Lynch said. "It was good to see those kids at the bottom of the lineup play the way they did, and it was a good way to end the season."

Kane, in fact, finished the season with three great matches in a row, along with playing partner Ben Maynard, even as the Wildcats suffered a pair of tough losses. With Kane in the number eight slot, and Maynard at number seven, the duo picked up big wins during the Wildcats losses to Arlington (35 1/2-33 1/2) and Winchester (47 1/2-24 1/2).

Against Arlington, Maynard won by a score of 7-2, while Kane won 5 1/2-3 1/2, in what at the time was his first match of the season, while against Winchester, each player won by a score of 5 and 4.

"They have been a great combination, I just wish we had discovered them earlier in the season," Lynch said. "They did a great job for us in those last few matches."

this year's t-shirts, we went with salmon. I know he would be the first one laughing about this.”

Certainly Tony's stories, his dedication to his family, friends, and his love for the game of hockey will always be instilled in the minds of those close to him.

A handful of his former co-workers from Verizon were on hand again, running in his honor, including Haverhill resident Paul Scovotti, who was the first overall finisher with a time of 19:23. He has won the event all three years.

Rounding out the top ten male finishers included: Ryan McClure (20:36), Jared Costantino (20:53), Justin Larosa (21:15), Jeremy Vatur (21:51), Ted Wisner (22:40), Jeff Mahoney (23:41), Gerard Costantino (23:45), Tony Larosa (24:02) and Christian Robarge (25:14).

Tony's daughter Michelle was the top female finisher as she was sixth overall at 22:39. She was followed by Adriana Addonizio (25:20), Gina Jones (25:24), Lauren Fitch (26:33), Natasha MacFarlane (26:46), Marcia Podvey (26:53), Melanie Costantino (26:57), Lisa Maher (27:21), Brandi Oliveri (28:42) and Karen Blanchard (28:46) for the top ten female finishers.

One of the race directors John Foley explained several weeks ago, that three scholarships are given out each year in honor of Tony.

“The most important part of why we do this isn't just about continuing to keep Tony's memory alive but to give to the community,” said Foley. “We offer three scholarships. One to a male and one female hockey player that is part of the Wilmington Youth Hockey organization. Tony was an avid hockey player and coach and gave so much to the Wilmington Youth Hockey program.

“The third scholarship really reflects who Tony was. We give it to a Wilmington High School student that played a JV or Varsity sport. It reflects Tony because he was an die hard athlete. But more important, it reflects his philosophy on life - ‘What can I do? How can I help?’ We look for the student that understands that philosophy.

“This race also helps his family, and that starts with his girls. All three of them (Donna, Sara and Michelle) of course and his mom, siblings, nephews, nieces and close relatives. From a family aspect, we all heal differently. This event I believe helps in the process.”

Letter to the Sports Editor

Alonardo Family says thank-you to all

Dear Sports Editor:

We would like to thank Jamie Pote and the Town Crier for helping to get the word out about the TonyA 5K Road Race.

We would also like to thank the event's sponsors including: Cooke's Skate Supply Shop; Grow Socially & Interlink One; Lily Management Group; Carl Toto and Sons, DJ Service; Dee Ray Inc.; Michael Newhouse, Attorney At-Law; G+C Concrete, as well as the newest sponsors, The Tewksbury Sports Club and the Strive 24-Hour Fitness Club of Wilmington.

We are so grateful to the organizers of this event and to UMass Boston Women's Ice Hockey team, all of the volunteered who run all the stations and help with set up, as well as the St Lawrence Women's Ice Hockey team who showed up to cheer all the runners on!

The support the Town of Wilmington has shown my family has been overwhelming and I'm glad we are able to give something back with the three scholarships in Tony's memory!

What can I do? How can I help?

Thank You,
Donna, Michelle and Sara Alonardo

with come here every year to run in his honor. Actually the second place finisher (Ryan McClure) is the son of a guy who worked with all of us. I just met (Ryan) today for the first time."

Ryan McClure, a 14-year-old from Plaistow, New Hampshire, is a freshman at Timberlane Regional High School. He is a member of the cross-country team, and is "close to being on the varsity roster". He said he didn't know Tony, but said his father Tom, who finished 29th, was friends with him.

"My Dad said to me (on Friday), 'hey do you want to run a 5K tomorrow?' I said 'yeah sure'. He's also running (in this race). He's back there somewhere," said Ryan with a big laugh.

While Ryan had some distance on Dad, Scovotti had some distance on Ryan.

"There was a point where he took a turn and I didn't see where he was," said McClure, who finished at 20:36. "There was another point where there were two split-offs and I wasn't sure where to go. I took a guess and thank God I took the right one (and saw Scovotti well ahead of me)."

The top Wilmington finisher was 34-year-old Jared Costantino, a WHS graduate of 2002.

"I ran this last year and I finished fifth at 22:06, so this year it was more than a minute better so that's good. Plus it was wet out there," he said.

Costantino has been running a lot the last two years.

He said he wanted to change his lifestyle so he took up running and has been hooked ever since.

"I run a lot now. I dropped sixty pounds over a two-year span and it's all from running and healthier living. You know how it is, you play sports in college, you start lifting weights in college, then I stopped lifting and (started to gain weight) so I decided to get up off the couch and do something about it. I run six days a week."

His uncle Gerard Costantino finished 9th overall at 23:45 and then his wife Melanie finished 22nd overall at 26:57.

All in all, 158 people crossed the finish line all for the same cause.

"It's awesome because people come out to remember my Dad and I don't want anyone to forget him," said Michelle. "He was just such an awesome guy so it's nice to see such a big turnout. People come not only to run in his memory, but to run for my family and that's so appreciative."

Donna Alonardo with her daughters Sara (left) and Michelle (right) and their dogs Abby and Cassie, gather together after crossing the finish line during the 5K Road Race event held in honor of Tony Alonardo, Donna's husband and Sara and Michelle's father; Below Donna is all smiles as she passes the finish line. For ninth straight year, Field Hockey team qualifies for tournament

Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com

For the ninth straight year and sixth under head coach Leanne Ebert, the Wilmington High School Field Hockey team will be participating in the Division 2 North Sectional tournament after qualifying for post-season play with a 3-0 win over Melrose on Friday afternoon.

The win pushes the 'Cats to an overall record of 8-3-2.

Last year the Wildcats barely got into the tournament and then pulled off a dramatic first round win over Lynnfield before falling to Ipswich. With five games left on the schedule, the 'Cats are hoping to add to the win column to improve their seed position.

"The girls were so excited after the game and we talked as a team about what worked, what went well and what they need to do going forward to continue with their success," said Ebert.

Senior Jill Miele scored all three goals in the win over Melrose giving her goal Nos. 21, 22 and 23 - with five regular season games left. Last year she scored 13 goals in 20 games and so far this year she has 23 goals in 13 games.

While Miele once again was the highlight in terms of finding the back of the net, Ebert said that the credit is spread around to the entire line-up.

"The girls worked extremely well as a team - one of the best games this season as far as communication on field which we constantly stress the importance of," she said. "The girls were all saying how much fun they had while playing. They were enjoying their success in the moment. I know they have the ability to build on this and continue to work and grow as a team."

Wilmington faced Burlington on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, and then will host Wakefield on Friday at 3:45 and Danvers Monday night at 6:00 pm, before ending the regular season with trips to Stoneham on the 25th and Watertown on the 27th.

GIRLS SOCCER

While the Field Hockey team qualified, the WHS Girls' Soccer team had a golden opportunity to qualify for the seventh straight year on Tuesday afternoon but let one slip away. The 'Cats had a 2-0 lead over Burlington with 38 minutes to go before the Red Devils scored two goals and the game ended in a 2-2 tie.

The Wildcats are now 6-3-5 overall and need one more point to get into post-season play.

"It's disappointing," said head coach Sue Hendee. "I'm not sure the girls were as motivated as they should have been since a win would have qualified us for the tournament. I think they took this game a little less serious than they should've. We had a 2-0 lead and when you give that up and end in a 2-2 tie, that's always disappointing."

At the 24th minute, Alyssa Bernazani scored on a nice feed from Annie Wingate as the duo continues to be impressive all season. Then in the second minute of the second half, Dana Goulet scored on an assist from Bella Granara. Burlington then scored in the 9th minute and the 20th minute of the second half.

"We still have plenty of time to get the final point to get into the playoffs," said Hendee. "But we have other goals. We were hoping to host a state tournament game so unless we start winning some games, that may not happen. There are things we definitely need to work on."

In the win over Melrose, Jessie McCullough scored two goals, while Alyssa Bernazani and Dana Goulet had a goal and two assists each. Jocelyn Palmer and Wingate had the other goals, while Tess O'Connell added a single assist.

Wilmington has four games left with a trip to Wakefield on Thursday before coming home to face Stoneham on the 24th (5:30 pm), Watertown on the 26th (3:45 pm) and Tewksbury on the 30th (6:00 pm).

BOYS SOCCER

The Wilmington High Boys Soccer team lost a pair of games to Melrose, 2-1, and Billerica, 2-1, before beating Burlington 1-0 at home on Tuesday night. The 1-2 week puts the Wildcats at 3-9-2 overall and the team has officially been eliminated from state tournament contention.

In last Wednesday's 2-1 loss to Melrose, the 'Cats were up 1-0 as Diego Garcia headed in a ball from Joe Mirabella in the 52nd minute. Melrose then scored in the 59th minute before getting the game winner in the 65th minute.

Andrew Days made six saves in the net.

In the loss to Billerica, the Indians were up 1-0 before Garcia scored with 28 minutes left in the game to tie it up at 1-1. Then Billerica scored the game winner with about ten minutes left in the game.

Then on Tuesday night, the 'Cats escaped with a 1-0 win over Burlington as Riley Zaya set up Chris Grecco with the lone goal.

Wilmington has four games left on the schedule with a home game Thursday night against Wakefield at 6:00 pm, followed by a trip to Bishop Fenwick on Saturday, before hosting Stoneham Tuesday night at 7:00 pm. The final game will be at Watertown on the 26th at 7:00 pm.

This fall marks the sixth year that Wilmington and Stoneham HS soccer programs have partnered to raise awareness and funds in honor of breast cancer patients.

During the first three years, the funds went to the Susan G. Komen for a Cure Foundation. For the last two years the funds have gone to Hope and Friendship Metastatic Breast Cancer Foundation, a non-profit volunteer organization enhancing the lives of men and women with metastatic (stage IV) breast cancer and their families in the North Shore, Merrimack Valley, and southern NH areas.

Hope and Friendship supports metastatic breast cancer-specific research and offers all of their programs and services at no cost - hopeandfriendship.org.

The boys and girls teams already played one another and raised funds back on September 25th in back-to-back games played at Stoneham, and this Tuesday the teams will do it again with back-to-back games at WHS with the girls going at 5:30 and the boys starting at 7:00 pm.

CROSS-COUNTRY

The Wilmington High School Girls Cross-Country team thought it had won its first meet of the season on Tuesday afternoon, but league rules prevented that from happening. On paper the 'Cats defeated Burlington 23-32, but in reality Burlington edged out the win at 27-28. Head Coach Brian Schell explained the situation.

"Going into this meet against Burlington, their girls team had equal numbers competing as we did," he said. "We knew we had a strong chance on paper to come away with the victory. Unfortunately due to league rules the eighth graders are not allowed to score points toward a varsity race. However, this is a win in our eyes and that is all that matters.

"The girls have been looking phenomenal the last three weeks and the work ethic has paid off in our minds after this meet's results."

Schell pointed out performances from Angelyn Ciampa and Olivia Rodgers, which highlighted the meet.

"Angelyn Ciampa had a very strong race," he said. "Coming off an unfortunate injury she managed a personal record of 24:27 to take sixth place. Angie was tough and throughout the race passing two Burlington girls after the first mile and fighting off their last surge to the finish."

"And Olivia Rodgers finished eighth at 24:50. She also had a good race today. Olivia showed first signs of grit trying to finish strong with roughly a half mile left to go. She used the downhill to her advantage surging passed those same two girls Angelyn held off. She held onto that momentum until about 200 meters left and

Rams Football team grabs a share of CAC League Title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
BILLERICA - On a night when seemingly everything that could go wrong did go wrong for the Shawsheen Tech Football team, the Rams still managed to find a way to win last Saturday night, clawing their way to a 20-17 Homecoming victory over CAC Large rival Greater Lawrence at Cassidy Field. The close victory gives Shawsheen the inside track to the league title.

Both teams entered the game with a perfect 2-0 records in the CAC Large. With the Rams win, they took over sole possession of first place and clinched at least a tie for the league title for the second year in a row, after sharing the CAC crown with Northeast and Greater Lawrence last season.

The Rams (4-2, 3-0 CAC Large) who have now won four games in a row, have much bigger goals in sight this season. A win over CAC rival Essex Tech on the road Friday night will clinch the title outright for the Rams as they prepare for the Division 6 playoffs in two weeks.

As the final score would indicate, this was not an easy game for the Rams. The home town team jumped out to a quick 13-0 lead, and then saw it nearly disappear due to several bad breaks, some of their own doing, such as ill-timed penalties and turnovers, and others that were out of their control, such as tipped balls or missed calls by the officials.

Through it all, however, the Rams continued to battle, and were eventually able to come out on top, putting themselves in position to win another league title.

"We found a way to win. We were resilient with a capital R," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "I am so proud of the young men for the resiliency that they showed and the focus that they maintained through some things being a little unpredictable and not going our way. They did not get down, they got even."

"We tell them that all the time, that they have to maintain their focus, but you worry that it might be crushing, and tonight it wasn't. I am so proud of these young men."

At the outset, it looked like it might be an easy night for the Rams, when senior Sam

Baker returned the opening kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown. Baker actually lost the handle on the kick, before picking it up at his seven-yard line and taking it to the house, breaking some tackles at the start of the run before using his speed to outrun all pursuers down the left sideline. Shawn Powderly's extra point made it 7-0 just 17 seconds into the game.

It was Baker's ninth touchdown of the season overall, and his second kickoff return for a score this season.

Shawsheen would add to their lead early in the second quarter, going on a nine play, 84-yard drive capped by a two-yard run by Powderly (18 carries, 87 yards, 2 TD's) with 7:31 left in the half. Shawsheen senior quarterback Cody Sughrue of Tewksbury made several big plays on the drive, completing three long passes, including a 19-yarder to sophomore Josiah Martinez of Wilmington on a third-and-14 play, and a 32-yard connection to Baker to give the Rams a first-and-goal at the two yard line one play before Powderly's touchdown. The extra point failed due to a bad snap, but the Rams led 13-0.

"Cody made some great throws," Costabile said. "He's got a lot of emotion and a lot of passion, and he made some big plays. He keeps the huddle in order, he talks it up. He's a battler."

Greater Lawrence, however, would fight back before the end of the half, first with a 22-yard field goal by Franklin Morales and later with a three-yard run by Ader Mezidor with 21 seconds left in the half to make the score 13-10 as the teams went to the intermission.

The touchdown drive that led to Mezidor's touchdown was an example of a couple of the bad breaks that went against the Rams. First, the Reggie's had gotten themselves into scoring position on a 32-yard pass down to the Rams 18-yard line on a tipped ball that was nearly intercepted, but then landed safely in the arms of the Reggie's receiver.

One play before the touchdown, on a first-and-goal from the eight-yard line, the Reggie's were guilty of a blatant hold on a sweep play, when an offensive lineman pretty much tackled a Shawsheen player, but the officials missed the call. As a result, rather than moving the ball back to the 18-yard line, they instead advanced to the three-yard line and one play later Mezidor brought his team within a field goal.

Despite the setback just before the half, Costabile and the rest of the Rams coaches were able to keep their team fired up for the second half.

"We just told the kids, we are still leading in this game and we need to forget everything and stop them on their first possession," Costabile said. "We can't let this snowball into the second half. We need a big defensive series to start the second half. So, stay focused, do what we tell you to do, concentrate on making that defensive stand to start the second half, and that is just what they did."

The Rams did allow one first down on the Reggie's opening possession of the half, but they allowed no more, thanks in large part to some big defensive plays by senior linebacker Marc Companschi of Wilmington and senior defensive end

Brendan Studley of Tewksbury.

"Comp had a huge game, huge," Costabile said. "Studley played phenomenal, Comp was tremendous. They both played great games."

Shawsheen added to their lead on the first play of the fourth quarter on a five yard run up the middle by Powderly for his second score of the game (and his seventh of the season), to make the score 20-10. Once again, the big play on the drive came from Sughrue, who connected with junior wide receiver Ryan Quinones for 49 yards on a third-and-eight play, to give the Rams a first-and-goal at the Reggie's four yard line two plays before Powderly's score.

Greater Lawrence pulled within three points with a touchdown with 3:43 remaining, but the Rams were able to run out the clock thanks to some tough running by Powderly, who clinched the game by converting a fourth and inches with 1:30 left in the game.

Golf team captures 13th straight league title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Needling a win over CAC rival Northeast Metro Tech last Wednesday afternoon in order to secure a share of their 13th straight CAC league title, the Shawsheen Tech Golf team wasted little time in establishing their dominance, rolling to a 7-2 win over the Knights to improve their record to 7-5 overall.

More importantly, they improved to 7-1 in the CAC, giving them a tie for the league title with Essex Tech, whom they lost to early in the season, but came back to defeat a couple of weeks back to create the deadlock at the top and give them a share of the league.

Winners on the day for Shawsheen against Northeast included senior Matt Irwin, who was the low medalist with a score of 39, followed by senior captain Matt Galinos with a 40, while fellow seniors Nick Nardella and Aidan Rexford also shot 40's and senior Zach Carpenter fired a 42.

It has been a remarkable run over the past 13 years for the Rams, who started their string of titles in the CAC, before moving to the CAL (Colonial Athletic League) for six or seven years and then moving back to the CAC several years ago.

Regardless of the league, and regardless of the competition, the Rams have continued to win, and their coach Tom Struthers, who has overseen each of the titles, is very proud of what his players have accomplished.

"The thing about our team, is whether or not we cruised to the league title or had to really battle for it like this year, we always seem take a group of kids and make them come together as a family and that is the most important thing," Struthers said.

"From the beginning, when I first started at Shawsheen and we were playing against Minuteman and Tyngsboro, who were winning the league all the time, it was a challenge for us and the kids met that challenge."

Struthers has no doubt coached many great golfers during the Rams 13-year run of titles, but to him it has always been about much more than just talent that was passed by one of them, but the more she pushes herself like that the next time she too will hold them off."

Sam Burke was the team's top performer as she was second overall at 21:49, followed by Lailoo Perriello (3rd, 22:09), Amie Russell (4th at 23:54), Allison Jordan (11th, 25:12), Gabriela Villalta (12th at 26:30), Heather Ritson (13th at 26:31) and Lauren Guiliana (15th at 27:17).

Wilmington is now 0-6 on the season. Turning to the boys team, the Wildcats were defeated 23-32 to fall to 2-4.

"Going into this meet we had a lot on the line," said Schell. "A win could possibly bring us our first winning record in the program since joining the Middlesex League. However, we knew Burlington has always been a strong team and that it was going to be very close."

"Despite the score, many places came down to neck-and-neck finishes. Unfortunately we did not come away with the win, but the best of both teams showed today. We always seem to bring the best times out of our opponents, and it showed with all of their tops kids running personal records and even the top runner pushed a course record for their school."

Like the girls meet, Schell thought two runners who finished 9th and 12th overall, Vincent De La Cruz and Adam Curdo had the strongest performances.

"Vincent finished at 17:28 and he is one of the bigger/muscular guys on the team and his strength paid off for him. He is a hard worker and is one who has stepped his game up in the weight room. The power he has built up paid off for him on this hillier course and his time was roughly a forty second personal record."

"Adam Curdo finished at 17:55 and he has stepped up his game a lot during this season. He hasn't just been progressing well with his splits, but also his overall times every week. AJ's goals are to be a strong competitor in the 400-meter hurdles during spring track. If his drive and work ethic continues through out the year, things look promising."

The team's top finishers included Greg Adamek (3rd, 16:59), Ben Packer (4th, 17:00), Kevin Elderder (6th, 17:12), Joe Lydon (10th, 17:38) and Thomas Goodwin (15th, 18:14).

Both teams will conclude the regular season with a home meet against Melrose on Tuesday.

Public Notices

Every day throughout the United States newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics including guardianships, conservatorships and protective orders, probating wills, business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, auctions to dispose of surplus government equipment, local government finances and state and local elections. The public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

Both B and D Pop Warner teams come away with wins

B Team
Wilmington 25, Lexington 6
The Wilmington Pop Warner B team defeated Lexington 25-6 on Sunday to push their record to 6-0.

Once again the Wildcats dominated on offense with two rushing touchdowns by Adam LeBlanc. LeBlanc, Jake Roque and Andre Turner combined for well over 150 rushing yards on the day.

Quarterback Joe McCauley connected to both Marcello Misuraca and Jake Roque for touchdowns, while Joey Kullman caught the point after attempt by McCauley. On defense, Wilmington continued to be a force with interceptions by Jake Roque and two by Andre Turner. Strong defensive plays were made by Ben Andrus, Nate Keohan, and Ryan Laroche on the defensive line while Riley Morrell's tackle stopped the Lexington team on a huge 3rd-and-long play.

Dempsey Murphy had several tackles on the day from the line as well. The Lexington quarterback faced pressure all game by Ryan Watson, Jared Bishop, and Jonathan Diplatzi who consistently broke the offensive line of Lexington.

Derek Maguire recorded his first sack of the season taking the QB from Lexington for a loss.

D Team
Wilmington 39, Billerica 13
Wilmington Pop Warner's D1 team had a very impressive 39-13 win over the Billerica Indians on a picture perfect Fall Sunday morning at Wilmington High School.

The Wildcats offense showed complete dominance throughout the game driving the ball down field.

The defensive line was equally impressive showing their toughness allowing Billerica to only score 13 points.

Great coaching and Superb effort by each of these young players resulted in total Wildcat Domination.

Shawsheen Tech Golf team captures 13th straight league title has made Shawsheen teams great.

"We have been very lucky with our talent, but also with having kids who have the desire to keep getting better and better," Struthers said. "We want our kids to have fun, and that is a big part of what we do, but we also need them to take things seriously when we need them to, and the kids have always been able to do that."

This season was no exception to that rule for the Rams, although they found their way to the league title a little different manner than usual, as it was depth rather than top end talent that led them to the championship.

"This year we did not have four top players like we have had in the past, but we found a way to win some big league matches and get a share of the league title," Struthers said. "That was the great thing about it, was that everybody contributed to it. Nick Nardella shot a 40 against Essex for us in our biggest match of the season.

"We had a lot of kids like Kyle Preble (of Tewksbury) and Aidan Rexford step up this year. I think that was one of the biggest things for us this year, seeing so many different players step up."

The Rams will be back in action on Friday when they travel to Hillview Country Club for the CAC Championship Tournament. Galinos, Carpenter, Rexford, Nardella, and Preble will represent the Rams.

While Shawsheen will certainly be one of the favorites, Struthers knows they will have to be at their best to beat teams like Essex Tech and Northeast, who are very strong at the top of their lineups.

"I feel confident because I know we have players capable of putting up really good scores, but can we do it for 18 holes? If we stay focused and play the way we are capable of, I think we can do well," Struthers said. "They are all capable, they just need to go out and do it for 18 holes. Hopefully it will be a good showing, and hopefully we can win."

CROSS-COUNTRY

The remarkable season of the Shawsheen Tech Girls Cross Country team continued this past week, the Lady Rams swept a tri-meet last Wednesday against host Whittier Tech as well as Greater Lawrence Tech to improve to 7-0 on the season.

Shawsheen won in a rout over Whittier, winning by a score of 21-38, but had to fight all the way to end against Greater Lawrence, as they pulled out a dramatic 27-28 victory.

Against Whittier, the Lady Rams failed to take the first place finish, but that was about the only thing that went wrong for them all day, as they took seven of the next nine spots in the top ten to secure the victory.

Junior Ivana Wisky of Tewksbury took top honors for the Lady Rams, finishing second overall on the 2.9 mile course in a time of 21:28. She was followed closely by senior Alesha Talbot of Tewksbury in third place overall with a time of 21:41, freshman Rachael Halas in a time of 22:04 and freshman Jenna Johnson in fifth in a time of 23:08.

After Whittier secured a sixth place finish, junior Hayleigh Perry of Tewksbury took seventh in a time of 24:04, followed by freshman Kelly DeLosh in ninth in a tie of 24:31 and junior Rachel Conway2 of Tewksbury in 25:03.

Things were much more difficult for the Lady Rams against Greater Lawrence, but they had just enough to pull out the dramatic 28-27 victory.

Ironically, although they did have a much tougher time with Greater Lawrence, Shawsheen was able to take the top spot in the race, Wisky's 21:28 being good enough to top the field, with Talbot taking second in her time of 21:41.

Greater Lawrence came back however, to take the third and fourth spots to pull closer, and the score remained close when Halas took a fifth place finish followed by Greater Lawrence taking spots six through eight.

It looked the meet and the undefeated season could be slipping away from the Lady Rams, but when Johnson and Perry took ninth and tenth, respectively, both remained intact and Shawsheen was free to begin preparing for this week's big quad-meet against Essex Tech, Lynn Tech and Chelsea, at Essex Tech.

The tri-meet had much different results on the boys side, as the Rams, who had brought a perfect 4-0 mark into the meet, fell by scores 20-39 to Whittier and 21-36 to Greater Lawrence.

Despite the two losses, the Rams did get some outstanding individual performances, none better than junior Ryan Smith, who finished first overall against both teams in a course record time of 16:08.

Whittier however, took the five spots in their meet, before junior Nick Tuccelli stopped the bleeding with a seventh place finish in a time of 17:30, followed by junior Steve Basler of Tewksbury in ninth place, in a time of 17:39 and Tommy Strow of Wilmington in tenth in a time of 17:43.

The Rams also fell to Greater Lawrence by a score of 21-36, with Smith's course record once again taking the top spot, followed by Tuccelli in sixth, Basler in eighth and Strow in tenth.

BOYS SOCCER

What seemed like an impossibility just a few weeks ago now is beginning to look very much within reach for the Shawsheen Tech Boys Soccer team as the Rams continued their unlikely push towards a post season berth with two more big wins this past week.

With their two wins this week, a 5-0 drubbing of Whittier last Friday, and a 1-0 thriller over Greater Lowell on Tuesday, the Rams have now won four of their last five games to improve to 6-7-2 overall.

With three games left in the regular season, the Rams have put themselves in great position to achieve the .500 record needed in order to qualify for the post season.

It will not be easy by any means, as their opponents the rest of the way, Lynn Tech, Essex Tech and Mystic Valley, all defeated the Rams earlier in the season. But this current Rams team also seems a lot different than the squad that struggled to a 2-6-2 first half of the season.

The Rams kicked off their week by kicking off the Shawsheen Homecoming weekend in style with a 5-0 drubbing of Whittier Tech last Friday. Scoring for Shawsheen were junior forward Gavin Pigott, junior forward Jared Rizzo of Tewksbury, senior forward Ioannis Flaounas, senior midfielder Shawn Marshall of Wilmington and senior forward and Robert Danehy of Tewksbury. Assists went to Flaounas, senior fullback Billy Eagen of Tewksbury, senior midfielder Nick Sachetta, senior fullback Joe Genetti and sophomore midfielder Cam Corsino. Also playing well were senior fullback Story Michaud, senior forward Nick Gird, Nick Scaben and Justin Purdue.

That win improved the Rams to 5-7-2 overall, and they would inch closer to the .500 mark on Tuesday with a hard fought 1-0 win over Greater Lowell in a road contest. It was the second one goal victory over the Gryphons on the season for the Rams, having defeated them 2-1 earlier in the season.

The Rams got the game winner midway through the first half when Gavin Pigott scored off of Cam Corsino's corner kick. Also playing well for the surging Rams were Shawn Marshall, Kyle Simonds, Matt Pustizzi and Nick Sachetta.

GIRLS SOCCER

The Shawsheen Tech Girls Soccer team went 2-1 this past week, surrounding a non-league loss to Wakefield on Homecoming with two more important CAC victories to improve to 7-7-1 overall and 5-2 in the CAC with two big CAC matchups on tap for this week as the Lady Rams look to not only secure a post season berth, but grab a share of the CAC title as well.

The Lady Rams kicked off their week with a hard fought 3-0 win over CAC rival Whittier last Wednesday in a road contest, picking up the team's third shutout of the season. Senior forward Shannon O'Grady of Wilmington started off the scoring early for Shawsheen with an unassisted goal, while senior Brittany Malfa of Tewksbury scored the Lady Rams other two goals off free kicks.

Junior Rebecca Smith of Tewksbury and sophomore Taylor Sacco split time in net sealing the shutout for Shawsheen, aided greatly by some strong defense by senior Catherine McKenna, Rachel MacDonald and Jackie Woodward, along with junior captain Monique Kazelyan.

After a 4-1 loss to non-league rival Wakefield on Homecoming Day on Saturday, the Lady Rams were back in action on Tuesday against Greater Lowell in a home contest, coming away with a dominant 4-0 victory over their long time rivals.
